CHINESE ADVISORS TO THE COUNCIL ARE INSTALLED

Invited To Attend Weekly Meeting Of Municipal Body

BIG RECEPTION HELD

Over Sixty Chinese Organisations Honor New Committee

The five members of the Chinese Advisory Committee—Messrs. Sung Han-chang, Hsia Yung-sung, H. C. Moh, David Z. T. Yui and Chen Kuan-foo—formally assumed office yesterday and attended by invitation at the Council meeting at the Council Office last evening.

Mr. A. Brooke-Smith, Chairman of the Council, welcomed the advisors on behalf of the community in the following terms:

"Gentlemen, my colleagues and myself greet you today, on behalf of the foreign community of Shanghai, of which you are our fellow residents.

"As you are aware, the Foreign Settlement of Shanghai is the place set apart by China for the residence of foreigners and in which they are obliged to undertake the onerous and responsible duties of maintenance of the public peace, order and good government of all residents therein, both foreign and Chinese.

"Under the old regulations, as perhaps you know, Chinese were not permitted to live in the Foreign Settlement, but this regulation has by unanimous desire of the foreign community been relaxed for many years, in the interests of all concerned, and our Chinese friends are always welcome to come and dwell amongst us provided they comply with the Settlement Regulations. These regulations it is the duty of the Council to administer. It is called a Municipal Council but it is really not quite that, in the usual acceptance of the term; its real name is 'The Executive Council for the Foreign Community of Shanghai, North of the Yangkingpang.' It is a very long name, and that is why it is seldom used. But that is why it performs functions which are not always associated with municipalities in Europe and America. That is why, among other things, it appoints its own police, administers hospitals, maintains educational establishments, provides for its own public security, and does many other acts and things which it is bound to do. The responsibility is great, and becomes ever more so, but we cannot escape our responsibility, since the Council must maintain good order in the Settlement.

"To assist them in the work of governance however, the Council has always appreciated the value of enlightened opinion, and we realise that in matters affecting our Chinese fellow residents, there are many questions upon which we would welcome the close co-operation and assistance which can be obtained by consultation from time to time with such well enlightened Chinese gentlemen as yourselves. I am confident that upon all occasions your advice will be sound and wise, and that, with its aid, we will be able to ensure that the Chinese residents of the Settlement will remain happy and contented.

"We have already some matters upon which we would like to have your advice at an early date and the Secretary will accordingly convene a meeting shortly at which I hope you will all be present."

MR. SUN REPLIES

As the spokesman for his colleagues Mr. Sun Han-chang replied.

"At your invitation, we, as representatives of the Chinese ratepayers, have come this afternoon to meet you in your Council," he said, "and, to be sure, we are highly sensitive of the honor. We greatly appreciate what you have just said, and are fully in sympathy with your highest ideals and hopes. If we understand correctly, our function is to advise the Council on all matters pertaining to the best welfare of the Chinese residents in the International Settlement. We wish to pledge the Council our very best co-operation in that direction. Not only that, it is our great hope that our services to the Council may prove highly beneficial to the promotion and maintenance of the friendship and good-will among all the residents within this municipality and this may in time lead to a fuller share on the part of the Chinese in the rights and obliga-

PASSENGER FROM SHANGHAI LOST OFF LINER NILE

Frank R. Myers, Of Hankow, Is Missing After Call At Yokohama

Mr. Frank R. Myers, one of the Shanghai passengers sailing for the China Mail steamer Nile which left here on April 24 was found to be missing when, after leaving Yokohama a few days later, a check of the passengers was made. A wireless message was dispatched to the China Mail office at Yokohama advising of Mr. Myers' disappearance.

Mr. Myers has for many years been a district accountant of the Chinese Postal Administration. He has been stationed recently at Hankow. During the war he took a large group of Chinese laborers to France, and spent two years in that service. He returned to Hankow over a year ago, and was on vacation leave when he disappeared off the Nile.

At the Postal Administration offices yesterday, as well as at the local offices of the China Mail no further information could be gathered as to Mr. Myers whereabouts, or fate. Mr. F. L. Smith, the deputy postal commissioner, received a post card from Mr. Myers sent from Yokohama over a week ago. Mr. Myers wrote that he was enjoying himself immensely in Japan. It is believed that Mr. Myers missed the Nile, and will continue to America on a later boat.

Harvey In London, Col. House With Him

(Reuter's Service)

London, May 10.—Colonel Harvey, the new American Ambassador to the Court of St. James, has arrived at Southampton, accompanied by Colonel House.

In the course of an interview, Colonel Harvey said he brought a message of good cheer and hope. England, he declared, had more than American sympathy. There was never a time when America felt so keenly as now the moral obligation she owed to the Motherland. The great Empire and the great Republic must get together in order to save themselves and to save the world.

SHANGHAI GREETS COMMERCIAL MEN FROM NORTHWEST

Distinguished Party Arrives On Steamer Wenatchee Of Admiral Line

CHINESE CHAMBER HOST

Visitors Tour City In Autos And Attend Country Club Tea Dansant

Shanghai gave welcome yesterday to the group of commercial envoys from the American Northwest who arrived on the Steamer Wenatchee, pathfinder of the Admiral Line's new fleet of five passenger carriers that have reopened trans-Pacific passenger traffic between Puget Sound and the Far East. The Wenatchee, delayed 14 days on this, its maiden voyage, by a breakdown of its engines when the vessel was nearing Japan, arrived early yesterday morning and after the party of distinguished visitors had been greeted by representatives of the American Chamber of Commerce, the Chinese Chamber of Commerce, consular and other officials, a day of sightseeing with functions of various kinds was provided for them.

The entire party will be in the city through the day today and will be entertained at a number of informal affairs. In addition to these they are to be the guests of Capt. Robert Dollar, who was a member of the party on the voyage across the Pacific and who has arranged an excursion on the Whangpoo for this afternoon on one of the Dollar river boats.

SAILS TOMORROW

The Wenatchee is scheduled to sail at 5 o'clock tomorrow morning to complete the voyage to Manila and a number of the members of the party will proceed with it. Others are remaining to make tours in China and several are proceeding south by other routes than that of the Wenatchee and will rejoin the ship at Manila to make the return voyage to Seattle.

Officially the visiting party is the "Honorary Commercial Commission from the Pacific Northwest of the United States of America on the steamship Wenatchee to the Orient." Its members include a number of the most prominent figures in the commercial and financial world of the Northwest of America.

In the words of Capt. James S. Gibson, Chairman of the Seattle Chamber of Commerce, who is head of the party, the purpose of this American mission is "to meet and extend the hand of friendship to the great people of China with whom our relations have always been so cordial, and to cement this friendship which means so much to both nations.

"We are a delegation of business men," said Captain Gibson, "making this voyage on the new United States Shipping Board Steamship Wenatchee, which is inaugurating an American passenger service between our Northwest Pacific district and China, operated by the Pacific Steamship Company, the Admiral Line.

"We are not a body of professional men or politicians. We are business men, representing the industries of our country—bankers, importers and exporters, manufacturers of lumber, iron and steel, shipbuilders and ship and railroad operators."

HAVE CHINESE TIFFIN

After the visitors had been given a glimpse of Shanghai in tours by motor cars around the city the party was entertained at tiffin by the Chinese Chamber of Commerce at the Pan Sung Garden near the Arsenal. Here a delightful Chinese luncheon was served after which several brief addresses were made.

An eloquent welcome was extended by Mr. C. C. Nieh, Chairman of the Chinese Chamber of Commerce, who referred to the traditional friendship of China and the United States and said it was to the mutual interests of both countries that the commercial relationship that has been built up shall be enlarged and strengthened.

In the response that he made Captain Gibson recalled that he had visited Shanghai 28 years ago and he dwelt upon the marvelous changes that have been brought about since that time when he said the city ended at the place where the Astor House stands today. Captain Dollar also spoke of the commercial and maritime progress that the years have seen in China, predicting greater things for the future.

Following the tiffin a visit was paid to the quarters of the Chinese Bankers Guild on Boone and Honan Roads and from here the visitors were taken to the Chinese Chamber of Commerce. A visit was also paid to the plant of the China Edison Company after which the afternoon was devoted to general sightseeing. At the tea hour

SHIP CONFERENCE BREAKUP SEEN AS RATE WAR SIGNAL

Disbanding Of Freight Association Held To Presage Open Conflict

RATES ALREADY LOW

Many Local Firms Expect To Be Involved In New Competition

A freight rate war to the knife is foreseen by local shipping men as a consequence of the disbanding of the Westbound Freight Conference, announced in a wireless message received here yesterday. The message, dated at San Francisco and received by U.S. Naval radio, is to the effect that the conference disbanded Tuesday and that sharp competition might be looked for.

Local shipping offices had received no word of the break-up yesterday—probably owing to the interruption of the trans-Pacific cable, but it was stated that such an occurrence was not unlooked for.

To all intents and purposes the situation remains the same as it has been for some time past. Various trans-Pacific companies have been slashing rates to an extent which has placed the freight carrying business way below a profit making line—except for the fast ships which transport preferred cargo. But now that the conference has dissolved the masks are off and it is anticipated that efforts to hold business will result in rate offerings even lower than those which have been lately prevalent.

The Westbound Conference included practically every trans-Pacific carrying line in operation, including the Toyo Kisen Kaisha, China Mail, Nippon Yusen Kaisha, Osaka Shosen Kaisha, Admiral Line, Java-Pacific line, Struthers and Dixon, Frank Waterhouse company, Canadian Pacific Ocean Services, Glen and Shire lines, Pacific Mail Steamship Company and the Blue Funnel and Dollar lines—the latter two operating under a working agreement with the conference.

MAIL ARRIVES ON WENATCHFE, NEXT COMES ON ASIA

A fairly large mail came in on the Admiral Liner Wenatchee from Seattle yesterday morning. The early arrival of the boat permitted of its transfer to the American post office and its delivery to the public by 9 a.m.

The next mail from the States will come on the Canadian Pacific steamer Empress of Asia, via Vancouver. The Empress mail is due in Shanghai Friday night and will be ready for delivery Saturday morning.

Mails for Manila by the Empress of Asia close at the American post office at 5 p.m. Friday.

The next outbound mail will go on the Empress of Japan, leaving port May 20.

COAL STRIKE HAVING BAD EFFECTS ON INDUSTRIES

Board Of Trade Figures For April Show Big Decreases

OUTLOOK DARKER

Rail And Transport Men Tighten Embargo On Foreign Coal

(Reuter's Service)

London, May 10.—The coal strike situation has become exacerbated. The executive of the Transport-workers' Federation, after a prolonged sitting, has decided to tighten their embargo on foreign coal, the handling of which would be likely to defeat the miners.

A statement issued by the Federation declares that the importation of coal with the object of defeating the miners is morally the equivalent of the importation of black-leg miners. It asserts that the blockade will not be loosened and that steps are being taken to consult the railwaymen's organisations with the object of rendering it more effective.

The serious effect of the coal dispute on national trade is evidenced in the Board of Trade returns for April, showing British exports at nearly £60,000,000 and imports at £90,000,000—decreases of £46,000,000 and £77,000,000 respectively, as compared with April, 1920.

Mr. J. H. Thomas, the railwaymen's leader, before departing for America a week ago for reasons of health, predicted that the coal trouble would be settled in a week. The sudden recrudescence of industrial trouble shows him to be a false prophet.

The fact that the "rank and file" movement among the railwaywen has grown in his absence. They are, in the same way as the Clyde dockers, refusing to handle foreign coal, thousands of tons of which have accumulated in the ports. Thus the executives of the transport workers and railwaymen are drifting towards the strike which they refused to call officially a month ago. The position is complicated by the strike of ships' stewards against a reduction of wages.

The Cabinet met today for the third time in 24 hours, a noteworthy indication of the gravity of the position.

London, May 11.—Mr. Winston Churchill has summed up the gravity of the present situation in regard to the coal strike by declaring: "We are at a bad moment, and it requires from the whole community an intense effort of character similar to that put forward in in 1914."

The Government are preparing to mobilise the resources of the nation in order to maintain vital services. Volunteers have started discharging coal ships in the Thames, and at Glasgow and Yarmouth, under strong military guards. Similar action is being taken at other ports.

Playwright and Play-Broker Who Earns Over $25,000 A Year

A number of talented women have won success as playwrights or in the play-brokerage business. It is an interesting field for woman's endeavor and to some has proved not only interesting but lucrative. Clare Kummer, playwright and play-broker, has established an enviable position in that business. She is among the most successful and earns over $25,000 a year. In the world of make believe the products of her pen have commanded unusual recognition.

Where Next Will They Try To Hide It?

HOOCH has been smuggled into the United States in all manner of forms, but here is one fellow who went to the trouble of having a special vest made and was then caught with the goods. More than $500,000 worth of contraband was seized and 150 smugglers were sent to jail last year as the result of the vigilance of Uncle Sam's customs guards in the port of New York, popularly known as the "Federal Police Force" of the harbor.

HICKSON PLANS ORGANIZED WORK FOR HEALING HERE

Wants Christians To Form Groups For Extending Work

Christians in Shanghai are to be organised into groups for spiritual healing by the laying on of hands, by faith in God by prayer, and by the destruction of germs of disease through the infusion of Divine "life," if the recommendations of Mr. J. M. Hickson, head of the Christian Healing Mission are to be followed.

The suggested plan of organisation is for all God-believing people in Shanghai to form into small groups, each group to pray at a stated time each day, for those certain sick or maimed who have been allotted to their care, for a cure of their ills through Divine aid. These groups are to meet each week at the home of one of the members and to pray as in the presence of God, with a sacred, definite purpose—the healing of the sick. And periodically the various groups will meet in church and practice the laying on of hands and the curing of the unfortunate.

Mr. Hickson, at yesterday's services in the Holy Trinity Cathedral, emphasised that faith in God and his powers for healing was paramount to the cure. "Signs" he said, "always follow faith.

"It will be your most beautiful work in life" the speaker said. "The thinking of others, the healing of the sick—to give yourself, your heart, your sympathy, and your love, instead of donating merely dollars."

"Through faith" Mr. Hickson said, "we can establish communication with Christ. Through such communication the Divine 'life' goes into one's blood and is so circulated. And that circulation of the Divine 'life' through the blood of the mortal, destroys the germ of disease. The process is perfectly natural: you only must understand it."

Mr. Hickson disclaimed any special powers for healing within himself. "When I lay my hands on a seeker of health" he said "I have such faith that I believe the person of Jesus Christ to be beside me. I know my hands have no powers—no man's has. But I can feel a power passing through me, and many people have said after treatment that they were conscious of a 'something'—some new power working into and through their system."

An example was quoted: One girl patient under treatment felt the Divine power going through her body, "from head to foot." This girl was inflicted with partial paralysis and deformed feet. She felt the power going to her limbs. That afternoon one foot came straight; the next day the other foot straightened, and on that afternoon she walked.

The Holy Trinity Cathedral was filled yesterday to witness Mr. Hickson's healing. Hundreds of Shanghai's sick and crippled went to the altar for Divine treatment There were men, women and children. Two children, crippled, were carried in arms by their parents. Mr. Hickson, and Bishop Molony each laid on their hands and prayed for cures.

Services for Chinese will be held tomorrow and Saturday mornings at 10 o'clock at St. Peter's church on Sinza road.

CHINA PROTESTS PHRASEOLOGY OF ANGLO-JAP PACT

Objection Taken To Use Of Words "China" And "China's Integrity"

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, May 11.—Representations made by China to Great Britain concerning the renewal of the Anglo-Japanese Alliance, which were presented during May, 1920, and have now been published, are as follows:

"We are repeatedly informed, in view of the approaching expiration of the Anglo-Japanese Alliance and in pursuance of the stipulations therein concerning renewal one year prior to its expiration, that the British and Japanese Governments have already begun an exchange of views thereon, and that if renewed the treaty will have to be revised. As this matter vitally concerns China and the Far East, the people of China are alarmed.

"Fortunately it has been international usage that when two friendly nations conclude a treaty it can only cover rights and interests rightly belonging to the nations party to the agreement, and this usage has acquired fresh strength as a result of the great war, in that international equality has become a watchword with the nations.

"If, as hitherto, the terms of the Alliance still contain such words as "China" and 'China's' integrity without China's being a party thereto, it is in fact an affront to the honor and dignity of a independent nation, and the Government and people of China cannot allow the matter to pass without expressing their protest."

GERMANY'S NEW CABINET YIELDS TO ULTIMATUM

Reichstag Accepts Terms After Short Debate By 221-197 Votes

WIRTH IS LEADER

Disarmament And War Criminals Question Caused Wrangling

(Reuter's Service)

London, May 10.—The new German Cabinet has accepted the Allied ultimatum.

Berlin, May 10.—The new Chancellor announced to the Reichstag the Cabinet's decision to accept the Allied ultimatum. He invited the Reichstag to pronounce upon the matter, and pointed out that the ultimatum could only be accepted or rejected.

After some debate, the Reichstag adopted by 221 votes to 175 a motion to the effect that the ultimatum should be accepted.

The German Cabinet crisis has been settled. At the opening of the Reichstag today, Dr. Wirth, the Centrist ex-Minister of Finance, announced the formation of a new Cabinet, in which he will be Chancellor and Foreign Minister. Herr Bauer, the ex-Chancellor, will be the new Vice-Chancellor and Minister of the Treasury; Herr Robert Schmidt, Minister of Labor, and Dr. Gessler, Minister of Defense.

The Minister of Finance has not yet been appointed. The Cabinet includes four members of the Center, four Majority Socialists and three Democrats. The inclusion of the last-named is only provisional, as they do not wish to join an administration in which the People's party is not represented.

SILESIAN FRONTIER OPEN

London, May 10.—Reuter learns that the promised closing of the Polish Upper Silesian frontier is by no means complete. The insurgent leader Korfanty crosses the frontier daily and commissariat lorries and trains for the insurgents continue to pass through.

The Polish Government has been warned of the seriousness of its attitude.

Dr. Sthamer, the German Ambassador in London, visited Mr. Lloyd George this afternoon. It is understood that he made a statement with reference to the position in Upper Silesia.

London, May 11.—Dr. Joseph Wirth, the new German Chancellor, was born in 1879 in the Grand-Duchy of Baden, being the son of an engineer. He was for some years a Professor in the Realgymnasium of his native town of Freiburg in Breisgau, and took up politics in 1913. He possesses a tall, upright figure, and is regarded as possessing the ablest financial brain in Germany. He is the leader of the Subscriptions to the fund for the families of the two Municipal detectives slain recently during a battle with armed robbers slackened off noticeably yesterday, only $31 being received. Shanghai's foreign community, numbering over 20,000 can, and doubtless will, make a better showing than has thus far been indicated and it is to be hoped that the Chinese populace, who benefit to even a greater extent than the foreign, will evidence their appreciation of the sacrifice of these public servants.

LOW DEATHRATE SHOWN IN CITY'S HEALTH REPORT

Commissioner Outlines Rules For Control Of All Diseases

The health of the Shanghai community during the past month has been remarkably good and the death rate, both foreign and Chinese unusually low, according to the report of Dr. C. Noel Davis, acting commissioner of Public Health published in today's Municipal Gazette.

The report follows:

The incidence of communicable disease was below normal. One or two cases of scarlet fever occurred. The most dangerous source of infection in this disease is the mild, unrecognised case. Every child that shows symptoms of a cold, sore throat or feverishness should be immediately isolated and put under the care and observation of a doctor, both for its own sake and for that of the community.

Vaccination against smallpox was carried on at the district health offices with undiminished vigour, over three thousand persons attending for that purpose.

The approach of summer makes it of urgent importance that special precautions be taken against intestinal disorders caused by infected food. These are set down in detail in the public health notice obtainable from the health office or the district health offices.

When we consider how vegetable gardens are treated with nightsoil; how many of our foodstuffs are handled by coolies and native servants, any of whom may be carriers of disease; how flies, often grossly contaminated, may crawl over and infect our food, we realise that trouble taken in personally supervising the sterilisation of our food is trouble well taken, and repays inestimably in saving us from depressing, painful and frequently fatal illness. It is not safe to rely on merely washing in water to which permanganate, iodine, formalin or other disinfectant has has been added.

The same need for sterilisation applies to milk which frequently undergoes a series of pollutions from cow to consumer, and should be sterilised by Pasteurisation—that is, by heating to 68° C. for half an hour, or by bringing to the boiling point, 100° C., before use. Eight percent of samples taken during the month were found to be adulterated. It should be made possible to inflict a penalty of imprisonment on persistent offenders. Increased expert supervision of dairies can be carried out when the great shortage in the staff of health inspectors is made up.

Here follow tables of Vital Statistics, Infectious Diseases and Outdoor Sanitary Work, including a special summary of Plague Prevention work, work done in the Municipal Laboratory, Municipal Hospitals and Slaughterhouse.

C. NOEL DAVIS.
Acting Commissioner of Public Health.

Tables appended to the report show a total of 265 deaths during the two weeks ending March 8. Of this number 15 were foreigners. Seven of these cases were from communicable diseases as follows: diptheria, 4; paratyphoid, 2; scarlet fever, 1. Thirty nine of the 250 Chinese dying from all causes suffered from communicable diseases: tuberculosis, 25; scarlet fever, 9; diptheria, 4; dysentery, 1.

"Made In Nippon" Means Nothing To U.S. Custom Men

"Made in Nippon" as a phrase has been placed under a ban in a United States Treasury department decision recently circulated to various American customs offices.

The order becomes effective September 1, after which all goods from Japan not bearing the words "Made in Japan" will be refused admission to customs entry until properly marked.

The use of the word "Nippon," which is the Japanese name for their island Empire, has been permitted for several years under the regulation requiring that the origin and place of manufacture be stamped on goods brought into the United States.

The new regulation requires that the marking be done in English and the ban put upon the word "Nippon" is based upon the ground that "Nippon" is a Japanese word and therefore does not comply with the customs requirement.

Russel O.K'd Hall's Famine Despatches

Peking, May 9.—Messrs. Hayes and Hall, who returned May 6 from their tour on behalf of the United International Famine Relief Committee through Shensi and Kansu, have been confronted with some material given out to the press by Rev. Dwight W. Edwards, Secretary of the Committee, consisting of excerpts from a private letter apparently not intended for publication, written by Rev. F. S. Russell, Treasurer of the Shensi International Famine Relief Committee. In regard to this article Mr. Hall states that it is difficult for the investigators, who were impressed that Mr. Russell is a straightforward, fearless man of above the ordinary acumen, to believe that such a statement could be written by Mr. Russell, in view of the fact that the first article by Mr. Hall published in the CHINA PRESS, the Peking and Tientsin Times, the Peking Leader and other papers, to which Mr. Russell's alleged statement takes such vigorous exception, was the public may be surprised to know, submitted by Mr. Hall to Mr. Russell himself in Sianfu on March 25, before being sent out by Mr. Hall for publication. In the presence of Mr. Hayes, Mr. Russell perused this article, assisted Mr. Hall in correcting and verifying the statements and descriptions made in the same, and himself supplied the figures contained in the same as to appropriations made the Shensi Committees and their expenditure. Mr. Russell not only took no exception to any statement made in the article, but heartily approved and endorsed it, in particular commenting favorably upon some of the phrases which are described in his alleged letter as "a pretty journalistic touch, but not true."

Germany's New Cabinet Yields

Center party, but inclines to the left wing, and has strong democratic tendencies.

Berlin, May 10.—The debate in the Reichstag on the question of accepting or rejecting the Allied ultimatum had no sensational features, and the general atmosphere was one of bowing to the inevitable in order to avoid worse consequences, although there were occasions when the Communists noisily interrupted.

Dr. Wirth emphasised that it was useless to accept the ultimatum without an earnest determination to do their utmost to meet the burdens which it imposed. Only by deeds could their opponents be convinced of the sincerity of Germany's intentions. He did not share the fears that an invasion would come even if the ultimatum were accepted.

London, May 11.—The German Ambassador, Dr. Sthamer, called on Mr. Lloyd George this morning and intimated Germany's unconditional acceptance of the Allied ultimatum.

Berlin, May 11.—The difficulties of forming a Cabinet, due to party squabbles, have only been solved by the threat of President Ebert to resign.

Peking, May 9.—Matters relating to the administration of the ex-Austrian and German Concessions in China are now occupying the attention of the Diplomatic Body, which is discussing with the Chinese Government various phases of China's administration of the ex-enemy concessions which do not strike the representatives of the foreign Powers as being satisfactory.

When the Chinese Government took over the Austrian and German Concessions it assured the Diplomatic Body that foreigners residing in these concessions would receive the same treatment as before and that none of their rights and privileges would be impaired. This assurance was followed later by the publication by the Government in December, 1920, of a set of regulations governing the administration of the ex-enemy concessions. It is these regulations which are now occupying the attention of the foreign diplomats, who find in them many points which are unsatisfactory to their home governments and which are not in accordance with China's assurance that the foreign residents in the concessions would retain their rights and privileges as hitherto enjoyed.

The two chief points now under discussion between the Diplomatic Body and the Chinese Government are the questions of the municipal councils of the concessions and the right of foreigners to acquire land in the concessions in perpetuity.

The regulations of December, 1920, provide that the Chinese officials in charge of the various concessions shall appoint a municipal council of eight for each concession, at least half of the members of the council to be Chinese. This regulation is objected to by the Diplomatic Body because it gives the residents of the concessions in question no power to elect their own delegates to the council and, on the contrary, leaves the entire affairs of the concessions in the hands of the Chinese Foreign Commissioner and a council arbitrarily appointed by him. It is understood in this connection that the diplomats want the Government to consent to the election of municipal councils in the ex-enemy concessions by the residents of these concessions, these councils to exercise the full rights and duties to which they are legally entitled and to co-operate with the Chinese official in charge of each concession, who should carry out the functions of a mayor.

The question of the purchase of land by foreigners in the ex-enemy concessions has been rendered acute by the fact that many foreigners have attempted to purchase such land in perpetuity, only to find that the new regulations of December, 1920, provide that the land can only be leased for a period of 50 years, with an option of renewal for another 50 years. Some of the foreign legations have, it is understood, instructed their consulates to register purchases of land in perpetuity in the ex-enemy concessions in spite of the Chinese regulations, but the general tendency of the Diplomatic Body is to endeavor to settle the question by friendly negotiation with the Foreign Office.

LICENSES FOR BARS IN CITY NOT TO BE CANCELLED

Two protests against the issue of licenses to the Victoria, the Portland House and the Naval Club bars failed of endorsement by the meeting of the Watch committee, held April 13, according to today's Municipal Gazette. The protests came from the Men's Total Abstinance League and the authorities of the St. Luke's Hospital.

The reasons for not acquiescing to the suggestions of the complainants were given as follows:.

"The commissioner of police comments to the effect that the withdrawal of the licenses for these two establishments on the grounds stated would savor of injustice since they are not ill-conducted and if it be admitted that breaches of the peace originate more freely in eating and drinking houses than elsewhere, this does not in itself constitute a reason for suppressive action.

"The committee in endorsing this view decide that they could not in justice single out two taverns for closure on the grounds stated, since such considerations apply to some extent to all bars and taverns in Shanghai. The protest is accordingly over-ruled.

"The second protest, that of the authorities of St. Luke's Hospital, is considered, relative to the renewal of the license of Portland House at the corner of Seward and Nanzing Roads, on the grounds that since the application of the St. Joseph's Catholic Association is likely to prove successful that of some other house in the district should be withdrawn.

"The committee cannot acquiesce in the justice of such a suggested course of procedure, and is not prepared to withdraw the license of any well conducted house on such grounds whilst, in the case of misconduct, the matter would fall within the province of the police for prosecution and such supplementary disciplinary action as might be necessary. Further the establishment in question does not for the present possess a tavern license. The committee is accordingly unable to entertain this protest.

PORTS GIVE WELCOME

Probably no vessel in the history of the Pacific Coast ever received such a welcome as that given to the Wenatchee at Seattle after its voyage from the Atlantic Coast through the Panama Canal. The liner was met by a convoy of ocean going ships, excursion vessels, naval craft and a mosquito fleet and as it passed the forts at various points on Puget Sound guns boomed greeting while airplanes hovered overhead and as the vessel docked a lusty cheer went up from thousands of throats. In lesser fashion this welcome has been echoed in the Far East at every port at which the Wenatchee has touched.

BRINGS FAMINE RELIEF

The sailing of the Wenatchee from Seattle marks the re-opening of American passenger traffic between Puget Sound and the Far East which has been closed for nearly six years and when the four additional Shipping Board vessels that have been allocated to the Admiral Line are brought into service, besides vastly increasing passenger carrying facilities across the Pacific, the port of Seattle will have, wth the existing Japanese and British passenger carriers, at least one sailing weekly to the Far East.

One noteworthy detail of the Wenatchee's voyage is the fact that it brings to China the first shipment of food from the Pacific Coast to the famine stricken people of the northern provinces. This shipment consists of three carloads of foodstuffs, including wheat donated by the farmers of eastern Washington and carried to Seattle by the Northern Pacific Railroad without charge.

The opening of the new passenger service across the Pacific also marks a huge expansion of the activities of the Admiral Line and when the full service is established it will operate the largest fleet on the Pacific highways. Its ships in the coastwise trade long have been prominent from Nome, Alaska to Corinto, Nicaragua, serving every strategic point in Alaska, British Columbia, Washington, Oregon, California, Mexico and Central America. In trans-Pacific service its vessels ply from Puget Sound and the Colombia river to Japan, China, the Philippines, Straits Settlements and Siberia and in addition to these the company maintains services from Pacific Coast ports to the Atlantic seaboard by way of the Panama Canal, a service from New York to the Orient through the canal and a "round the world" service.

The closed meeting of the Rotary Club scheduled to be held today has been thrown open in order to give the club members an opportunity to meet the delegates of the Special Commercial Commission from the Seattle-Pacific North-west who will be guests at this tiffin.

City Magistrate Sends In Petition On Light-Weight Coins

The problem of the light-weight copper coins circulating in the Settlement and its environs has been taken up by the Shanghai City Magistrate, who has written a letter to Mr. C. F. Hsu, the Commissioner of Foreign Affairs, requesting him to consult with the Senior and other Consuls in Shanghai regarding the prohibition which has been placed on the coins by the local tramways companies. The Magistrate asks that efforts be made to have the authorities mentioned endorse the acceptance of the coins at face value, but that further importations be stopped. It is reported in the Chinese Press that the local Defense Commissioner has issued an order prohibiting the refusal of the coins as legal tenders.

RICE RISES AGAIN

The failure of the arrival of rice boats in Shanghai was given as the cause of the sudden rise in the price of rice yesterday when the best quality cereal was quoted at $10.40 per picul.

It is reported here that 600 piculs of the cereal bought by unscrupulous Shanghai merchants for speculation was seized at Quinsan and confiscated when the authorities discovered that it was being transported without huchows.

Fire Chief Indicts Water Supply At Big Godown Fire

"With respect to the water supply," reports the Chief Officer of the Fire Brigade in commenting in this week's Municipal Gazette upon the recent Soochow Road silk godowns fire, "in my opinion it was worse than in 1913, which also occurred in this district, when 700 houses were destroyed.

"Circumstances which rendered the fighting of the fire difficult were the inadequate number of hydrants, the lack of water, low pressure of water, overloading and congestion of the godowns, storage of inflammable goods such as cocoons, the blocking of staircases, useless fire walls, wood lined galvanised iron roofs, barred windows, trebly padlocked doors, the absence of the man with the keys and the unnatural way in which the fire burned."

Canadian Province Excited About Oil

(Reuter's Service)

Edmonton,, Alberta, April 19 (by mail.)—Activity in Alberta in preparation for the spring rush to the oil-fields at Fort Norman is gathering headway, and the entire Province is in a state of feverish excitement. Scores of applications for charters to do business in Alberta and places to the north show that capital is taking no little interest in the new field. New companies are being organised daily here and in other Canadian cities. Seventeen are reported to have been incorporated in Toronto alone, and advices from Montreal and Vancouver show equal eagerness in those places. Great piles of freight are already accumulating at Fort McMurray, on the Athabasca river, north of Edmonton, awaiting transport into the oil country.

ACQUIT CHINESE ACCUSED OF PLOT TO MURDER LI

Mixed Court Holds Evidence Insufficient To Convict In Political Case

Voong Kyi-ming, charged with conspiracy to murder General Li Ying-zien, was discharged by Assessor Blackburn and Magistrate Yui of the Mixed Court yesterday, it being held that there was insufficient evidence to support the accusation.

Lengthy closing argument by counsel for defense and prosecution marked the final hearing of the case, following which the Court gave judgment. Mr. P. M. Linebarger, for the defendant, stressed the motives of pecuniary gain and revenge as having actuated the informer, Dih, to lay the charge. Counsel contended that the accusation was made with the idea of obtaining a reward from General Li and also because Voong's wife had rejected a proposal of marriage made by Dih.

Referring to the intimations of Southern inspiration for the alleged conspiracy Mr. Linebarger alluded several times to the mention of the name of Sun Yat-sen and declared that when the prosecution stated that Sun ordered the assassination it placed Sun in the stand with the accused. The Assessor stated that Sun's name might be left out of it but counsel contended that there was no getting away from the implication.

Mr. Zia, appearing with Mr. J. Em. Lemiere for the prosecution, replied. He ridiculed the idea of revenge as a motive for Dih's accusation, quoting evidence that he had seen and spoken to Voong's wife only briefly on one or two occasions.

In giving judgment the Court commented, after stating that the charge was dismissed, that the charge depended largely upon the story of Dih and in view of the fact that all parties were politicians or connected with political parties, there were complexities. The Court had to look for corroborative evidence involving the accused and such evidence had been absent. A sudden and unexpected raid had been made on Voong's luggage and nothing of a suspicious nature had been found, particularly no arms or incriminating letters. The possession of a photograph of Sun Yat-sen did not constitute evidence of any value. When the police were informed of the intended assassination and went to the scene they found no one. It was possible the conspirators had gone away but in view of the extreme gravity of the charge the evidence adduced was deemed insufficient to convict. There might have been a conspiracy to attempt the murder of General Li but it had not been proved. The advice of the Court to the accused was that he go away and not interfere.

WASEDA PLAYS HARVARD ANE YALE SHORTLY

Japanese Baseball Team, Now In Middle West, Goes Clear To East Coast

MEETING 23 COLLEGES

Opened Against Chicago U. Tuesday; At Evanston Yesterday; Purdue Today

A school to train professional baseball players will be established in Tokio by Rear Admiral F. Haraguchi and Viscount Nakasono. The plan is said to have the support of many wealthy people. It includes engaging an American instruct or and the sending of a finished team later to play in America. The Japanese like baseball which has almost become the national sport of the empire.

Chicago, May 1.—Waseda University of Japan has arranged the greatest tour of American colleges this Spring that a Japanese nine has ever taken, it is announced by the University of Chicago athletic authorities. The team from Nippon will play clear across the country to the Atlantic, meeting Yale and Harvard.

The visitors will be in charge of the "father of baseball in Japan," Prof. Iso Abe, dean of the college, and professor of political economy at the Tokio University.

An incident of the arrangements is that middle western games were scheduled by Waseda's first baseball coach, Prof. Fred Merrifield of the University of Chicago, who this year is coaching the Chicago team. A number of years ago when Prof. Merrifield was teaching in Waseda he introduced many of the finer points of the game to the Japanese college world, and last Summer piloted a Maroon team back to Japan.

The Japanese squad sailed from Yokohama on March 18, spent a month playing ball around Honolulu, and arrived in San Francisco on April 29.

Postponing its Pacific Coast games until the close of its tours so as to catch the middle western and eastern college teams before college closes, the invaders pushed on quickly to Chicago, opening there Tuesday.

The schedule follows:

May 10 at University of Chicago.
My 11 at Northwestern University.
May 13 at Purdue.
May 14 at Butler college Indianapolis.
May 16 at Indiana University.
May 18 at University of Chicago
May 21 at University of Illinois.
May 22 at Springfield, Ill (Sagamo Electric Co.)
May 23 at Washington University, St. Louis.
May 25 at Harvard University.
May 27 at Yale University.
May 30 at University of Pennsylvania.

BAER SAYS "BUGS" Baer:

RUSTLER BEAN LOST TWO WAYS

Fistianic Upstart Not Only Was Beaten By Gink, But Paid The Grub Check

BY 'BUGS' BAER

Dear paper:

When I read about Gink Fowler my Adam's apple starts to ferment in anger. How about Rustler Bean? Rustler was only 8½ when he whipped every inmate in the Home for Incurables.

His grandmother was a pious and amiable lady. When she worked loose from her handcuffs, eleven cops could handle her easily.

Gink Fowler defeated Rustler on a miserable piece of billiards. He dropped a glued dime on the floor and the Rustler broke both arms trying to pick it up. Up until this time Rustler was losing easily.

Yours,
FRANK V. CORR,
Chicago.

This letter was true right up until the time it was written. Gink never dropped a dime anywhere. Ten cents could have bought a bundle of fighters like Rustler Bean. He obtained the match with Roughtown's champion by making a poor mouth. He said his aunt was struck by a subpoena while trying to dodge the income tax. He asked Roughtown to put on a benefit to buy her new golden hinges for her appetite. Chivalrous and gallant at all times, Roughtown responded nobly to this worthy charity.

High priced speed boys were imported at great expense and a million tickets were counterfeited. Pickpocketing was speeded up to war production. The town hall was illuminated with bum oil stock and the telegraph poles were garlanded with noserays of brass knuckles.

SOME ARCH ERECTED

A triumphal arch of crutches and splints was erected on the main line of escape from Roughtown. A famous optician donated a Towler of Jewels patterned after the Pan-American Exposition in California. Each jewel was a glass eye. Even nature responded to the urge. That morning a gentle rain of arnica nourished the crime crops of Roughtown's farmlands. Entering into the spirit of the occasion the sun shone black and blue. The Mayor delivered an epilogue on back alimony. What could be sweeter?

Gink entered the ring fit as a busted fiddle. He hadn't slept for three weeks, knowing that he could catch up after the fight started. The Rustler sparred cautiously for an opening, looking on each neighbor as a possible competitor in the Olympic dash for the exits.

ALIEN SPOILED FIGHT

The fight was interrupted when some alien enemy suggested that the boys fight a little. He was given the privilege of going home and accepted it eagerly. This mammoth bazaar of knuckled and brute force was nothing to be looked upon by weaklings and craven hearted individuals. What a clash of ankles and atomic fury that was. While both boys were trying to annihilate each other, they met accidently in the middle of the ring. In a second both were hanging over neutral ropes like umbrellas in the rack. Even the thought of a blow was so powerful and penetrating that it would knock a man loose from his moorings.

Unable to bear the sight of so much sanguinary hokum, the Roughtown Chief of Police asked the promoters to change the fight to a cruller eating contest.

Gink ran the bakers ragged. Thus another thorn was added to his collection of laurels. The weight of the meal broke both his arches, but he out-manouvered the Rustler on the check. Roughtown was the only city where the waiters tipped the customers.

HOLD WRESTLING BOUTS TONIGHT AT THE VICTORIA

Le Brasseur Meets "Mr. Jack," Mysterious Dark Horse, In Main Bout

A veil of mystery attaches to the wrestling contest to be held tonight at the Victoria theater. One of the contestants is well known in the Far East as a wrestler and an all-round professional athlete: the other is known simply as "Mr. Jack."

Constant le Brasseur, who is billed as the "Champion de Lutte d'Europe", has appeared in Shanghai before. In 1919 he challenged and met Mr. William Berne in three gruelling contests, two of which resulted in draw decisions, and the third, after the admission of the toe hold brought him defeat.

"Mr. Jack" is a mystery. He has been kept under cover by his managers. He has not appeared in the negotiations for the contest, and he is unknown. He is not a Shanghai man, the promoters of tonight's contest say; neither is he off one of the naval boats now anchored in the river. He is a mysterious dark horse.

The bout promises to be a keen affair. "Mr. Jack" is the challenger. He is said to be full of confidence, and a first class man of the mat. He is a well known wrestler in Australia, the promoters say, with a record for quick and clean falls.

Tonight's contest will be staged with Greco-Roman rules in force. The toe hold and the strangle hold are barred. The conditions are very favorable to le Brasseur. It was the toe hold which lost him his contests with Berne here two years ago. The first contest, catch-as-catch-can, with the toe hold barred went one hour to no decision. The second bout Greco-Roman, still with the toe hold banned, went 1 hour and 45 minutes to no fall. But the third, catch-as-catch-can, with the toe hold permitted, saw his fall. Berne threw him twice using the toe grip.

CALIFORNIA BASEBALLERS SAIL TODAY

University Nine Leaving San Francisco On Liner Tenyo Maru

STANDS ARE GOING UP

Carpenters Wade Around Race Course Fretting About Weather

The University of California baseball team is scheduled to leave San Francisco today on the Tenyo Maru for a four-months' trip to the Far East, according to letters received yesterday from San Francisco. The collegian baseballers appear to be very uncertain as to their plans while in the East and will not know just where they stand until they get to Yokohama, when the Japanese who are putting up the money to bring the Americans out will announce the schedule.

The coming of the baseball team to the Far East is one part of the athletic advertising program undertaken by the Berkeley Institution. The varsity track team, champions of the West Coast, will compete in a dual meet with one of the Eastern colleges and stay around Boston for the Intercollegiate A. A. championships which are to be held at the Harvard Stadium on May 27 and May 28. The crew will race Princeton on June 6 and remains East for the Poughkeepsie regatta. And the baseball team comes out here. A fairly ambitious athletic program.

Locally nothing is known of the coming of the U. C. baseball delegation to Shanghai. It was originally hoped to bring the team here for the Far Eastern championships, which start on May 30 but the Tenyo Maru doesn't travel that fast.

In the meantime the stands are rising at the Race Course and the players are banking on a fair day in a month or two.

Woodrow Willson has nearly 450 members for his baseball club and expects another today. He is some shy of 1,000 but venerable authorities such as Doctor Downs assert that the first few games will bring along 200 others. With $6,500 the Club will be able to do something.

'FETISH SAVED ME' SAYS NUNGESSER, GREATEST ACE

Death's Head Painted On His Plane Was A Terror To German Foes

BY MARQUIS DE CHARETTE

THE author of this article was an officer in the first command of French tanks under Commandant Bossu [who was killed] that went into battle. He accomplished what no other man had ever tried, giving battle with a new war machine of the tractor type. Of seventeen tanks that went into their first battle four returned, their commander killed and his remaining men dangerously wounded.

These are the citations and honors Lieutenant Nungesser is entitled to have engraved on his card: Officer of the Legion of Honor; Medaille Militaire; Croix de Guerre, 30 citations, 28 palms, 2 stars; Military Cross; Chevalier of the Order of Leopold; Croix de Guerre, Belgian, silver palms; Karageorgevitch, Michel le Brave; American Legion of Honor; Bravoure de Serbie; Delilo de Montenegro; Croix de Guerre Portugaise, 1st Class; Reforme, 17 Blessures.

In America Nungesser is famed as the greatest aviator of the World War, but in Europe he is most celebrated for his fetish. How this fetish is regarded abroad may be inferred by the price set on it by Germany when it first made its appearance and when a German mark was worth about twenty-five times more than it has been since.

Plane after plane fell flaming from the clouds under Nungesser's attacks. The grewsome death's head painted on his invulnerable eagle of the skies struck terror to the enemy's soul.

A TERROR TO THE FOE

Ever since he landed in New York the ace has been asked how he made such a wonderful record in the war, bringing down 105 planes and with the French official recognition of forty-four. England and Germany do not require as many witnesses for "official" recognition. There were unofficial witnesses to 105. Nungesser attributes his success in aerial battles and his miraculous escapes from death to his fetish, and he has deputed to me the task of telling this. The sight of it brought consternation to every fleet of airplanes which encountered it, however brave the men who gave battle.

Germany offered a reward to the men who would destroy that swift engine of death and capture that fetish and its owner, dead or alive. Whether the enemy fancied that ownership of the fetish would bring them the same good fortune in the air I do not know. But this I do know: The sum offered for Nungesser's fetish increased steadily with the difficulty of securing it until it reached 500,000 marks, worth one-fourth that amount in American dollars.

A COVETED INSIGNIA

This meant that of all aviators in the war Nungesser was most subject to attack, and accounts for the fact that more than once his record for shooting down planes was eight in one day, and that he often fought, singlehanded, as many as six or eight enemy planes at one time, his little plane darting to attack and never letting up until he downed the man he was after. He attributes his inexplicable escapes and victories at such times to the luck of his fetish—so did the Germans. I don't suppose there was any one thing they coveted so much in an engagement as that little gold piece in Nungesser's pocket, the plane which flew its insignia and the man who owned it.

Seventeen times the ace received wounds that in an ordinary mortal would have proved fatal. But Nungesser felt that he bore a charmed life as long as his fetish remained on his body, and surgeons who worked over his shattered form on their operating tables seventeen times held the same opinion. Medical science had no theory to offer in such a case.

Here was a man badly wounded in one side of his head and with two bullet holes in the other; a jaw splintered by an exploding shell; a bullet through each side of his chest; a shattered elbow, leg and foot, to say nothing of less terrible wounds on other parts of his body. His skull, his arm, his leg and his foot all carry metal supports, so wonderfully supplied and adjusted by surgical skill that he can enjoy life, and even dance, although much dancing leaves its aftermath of pain.

STILL ABLE TO FIGHT

And yet, in spite of all this, I am convinced that Nungesser would rush into a cloud battle this minute if an enemy appeared on the horizon.

The thunder and flame of battle drew him like a magnet. In the maelstrom of Belgium, over the war-racked fields of France, his little plane sped like a hornet that always left its sting behind.

He could never be forced from the front. Wounded, he often continued fighting until carried to a hospital and from thence he always rushed straight back to conflict. No power could induce him to rest and recuperate from his wounds. The minute these were patched up so that he could get about he was back in the clouds, flaunting his challenge—his grinning fetish—at the enemy and defying death with its own symbol.

The plane he most often used was a Nieuport, a small light craft with a motor of 130 horsepower. In this he brought down twenty-one enemy planes and fought in sixty or sixty-two battles. But he had as good luck in other airplanes he used, for all bore the same charm painted upon their sides.

ENLISTED AS A PRIVATE

Nungesser fought in the skies, I on the field, and we were never together in battle. But I met him at the front, where I heard the story of his first leap to fame, a story thrillingly recounted in his book, which will shortly be published. At that time Nungesser was fighting in the 2d Regiment of Hussars, 4th Division of Cavalry, known as the "Famous 4th Division," composed of the Hussars of Verdun, Dragoons of Sedan and Cuirrassiers of Vouziers. He had enlisted as a private at the outset of the war and won his promotions by dint of hard fighting and intrepid adventures.

It was during the bad days of Charleroi, when the French army was retreating under the protection of the cavalry, that unprecedented honor came to Nungesser. In the end of August, 1915, after his division had been battling for a month in Belgium, Verdun, Ardennes and the Meuse, and the division was at Sissonnes, Nungesser in one of his brilliant coups stole a German Mors automobile and in it saved the life of his commanding officer. This thrilling episode met with as thrilling a climax. The Germans were coming up on all sides. They fired on the car and pierced his shako, surrounded and overtook the fleeing automobiles. They found an empty car. Soldiers looked in it. There was no sign of life to be seen. Undaunted, they began a search for the man they had been using for a target, when Nungesser made his second coup—sprang from his hiding place into the car, darted away before his amazed pursuers realised what had happened, and bore his commander to safety. Then he fainted.

AWAKENED TO FAME

There had been so protracted a strain and struggle of mind and body that when revived and given food the young hero slept heavily for twenty-four hours.

He awakened to find himself famous. The general in command of the Division had sent for him and Nungesser listened to such praise from that officer's lips as might fill any soldier with pride.

"You are a Hussar of the Hussars!" exclaimed the general, in conclusion. "You have taken a Mors. I shall give it to you. Henceforth you shall be 'Hussar of the Mors.'"

The Medaille Militaire, one of our most distinguished decorations, was therewith bestowed upon him. This is the reason why Nungesser wears the uniform and title of lieutenant of hussars, where he won his first military fame, although a captain of aviation. But he prefers to use now the simple designation he gave the commander of the cavalry division when he asked: "What is your name?" and was told "Nungesser."

Ever since he was eighteen years of age this famous ace has been fond of flying and, at the first opportunity, entered the aviation service of France, where his adventures in the skies have won the admiration of the world.

I have asked him what his sensations were when he first engaged an enemy in the clouds.

WHAT A FIGHTER THINKS

"I never thought about sensations," he told me. "I had only one idea—to catch the man ahead of me."

The career of Nungesser's fetish began with his career as an army aviator. He designed the trinket himself and has several of them, some of gold and some of silver, and fortunate is the man who succeeds in obtaining a duplicate of this famous luck piece.

I have it from himself that on one occasion he flew up to combat without his pocket piece, and that was one time when Nungesser thought of something besides the enemy. He began to feel uneasy as soon as he remembered his absent pocket fetish and did not feel safe until the fight was over and he landed on French soil, badly wounded. He feels quite certain that he might have escaped those wounds had he remembered his little fetish.

IS AN INVENTOR

I may add that it is characteristic of Nungesser to forget himself in pursuit of whatever interests him. That explained his military success; it explains his success as an inventor—for he has several inventions in airplane improvements and explosives to his credit, and one of these is of a sort to revolutionise everything in its particular field.

He not only works in his laboratory at 28 Avenue de Champs Elysees, but is also head of a school of aviation at Orly, near Paris, for which office the French government pays him a salary of more than a million francs a year. His dream is to gather about him, in a great laboratory, distinguished French engineers who might be interested in working on his inventions. He plans to devote his future to inventions relating to everything in the realm of the air, claiming that the one great means of swift transportation of passengers and freight in the future will be by airplane, and he has produced something to meet the needs of commercial transportation. He has explained to the Aero Club of America that the world lacks the type of plane needed for passenger and freight transportation, although well supplied with good sport and fighting types.

AN IMPRESSIVE FETISH

Some idea of the effect produced by the fetish of Nungesser on the Germans may be gained from the impression recently made on a great assemblage at Bus, who were there to watch him loop the loop and perform those daring aerial feats which render a spectator breathless with dread.

When Nungesser appeared in a white plane, on which was painted his death's head fetish in black, the effect was shocking to the startled crowd. They were dumb, as though some ghost of the war had rattled its bones before them.

He was made officer of the Legion of Honor when a noncommissioned officer, and given the rosette of lieutenant. Nungesser is by nature a jolly-spirited boy, the pride of his father and mother in Paris. He is fond of dancing and social gatherings and yet has a wonderful disposition for hard work. That is doubtless one secret of the distinction he has won at the early age of twenty-six.

No one who looks at his boyish, smiling face would ever dream what a fiery courage could flare suddenly in his apparently cool, intrepid nature. He demonstrated this on one occasion, in his twentieth year, when he was looking on at a boxing match between two great husky athletes. One of them was French and when his opponent knocked him out he delivered a contemptuous comment on French instability. The honor of France had been insulted. Instantly a slight form catapulted into the ring, and before the victorious giant knew what hit him blows were raining upon his body.

THE GIANT KNOCKED OUT

The astonished audience expected to see short work made of this fierce young assailant. They saw his jaw frightfully crushed by a staggering blow, his boyish form terribly punished; but the Nungesser spirit, which never lets go till he downs his man, persisted—the giant was knocked out.

Can you wonder that our French ace admired the young American heroes he met at the front? He liked them so much that he wanted to see what Americans were like at home, to become better acquainted with a nation which could produce such splendid types of fighters. He is delighted beyond all expectations. He thinks New York more marvelous than even the wonderful tales he had heard about it. His gratitude and pleasure over the hospitality with which he has been received are enthusiastic. Indeed, so greatly is he impressed that although his duties call him back to France on March 17 he declares he will soon return and make frequent visits here.

As for his achievements, when I tell him what is said here by those who meet him he looks abashed and says:

"I have simply done my duty, that's all."

Keynes Says Allied Sanctions Are Futile

British Adviser Says Entente Demands Were Recognised As Impossible

London, March 5.—John Maynard Keynes, financial adviser to the British peace conference delegation, writing in The Manchester Guardian on the penalties threatened by the Allies if the Germans balk charges that Great Britain is not playing the French game of detaching the Rhine provinces from Germany permanently.

"We made demands of the Germans which we knew it was impossible for them to perform," the economist writes. "They replied with proposals that erred in the opposite direction. A just result could only be attained by a discussion of how far we are prepared to allow and encourage Germany to develop a vast export trade and the extent to which we can accept and they can offer payment in kind."

Pointing out that the Germans are not bound to accept the Paris proposals, which are a modification of the Treaty of Versailles, Keynes charges that the Allies threatened to inflict penalties on the ground that the treaty has been broken in other respects.

"If these measures are directed at increasing the amount of available reparations, they are futile to the point of feeble-mindedness," he says. "A discriminatory import duty in Allied countries will tend to be paid partly by the Allies themselves and will restrict the volume of German exports. If the duties imposed at the boundaries of the occupied territories are higher than elsewhere, they will divert traffic; if they are lower they will diminish the available revenue; if they remain unchanged, the Allies will merely get shiploads of paper money about which Lloyd George is so eloquent. The same attitude of mind is morally responsible for this latest pronouncement as was responsible for reprisals in Ireland, and if it is persisted in it will lead to equal disaster.

U.S. Legion Adopts Poppy For Memorial

(Reuter's Service)

New York, April 18 (by mail.)—The American Legion has adopted the poppy as its Memorial Day flower. On May 30 thousands of tiny red silk flowers will be distributed throughout America by the Legion and other patriotic organisations.

The poppies—exact replicas of those which "blow on Flanders fields"—were made by war orphans of the American and French Children's League. They were brought to America by Mme. Anna E. Guerin, who founded the League for the purpose of perpetuating the friendship between the nations which had its inception on the battlefield. The poppy is the League's national emblem, and the children are the self-constituted guardians of the graves of American soldiers dead in France.

Indianapolis, Ind., April 18 (by mail.)—A report to the American Legion from the Quartermaster General of the Army shows that there are 61,429 American graves in seven foreign countries, 59,937 of them being in France.

The Legion's records show that the organisation decorated 75,000 graves overseas last year with a fund of 1,000,000 francs raised in America and France.

IMPORTANT RAIL PARLEYS DRAW MANY TO PEKING

Engineers And Technical Men Attend Conferences Called By Official

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, May 6.—Three important railway conferences are being held in the Ministry of Communications at Peking. Hundreds of railway men, engineers-in-chief and railway accountants, Chinese as well as foreigners, have arrived as delegates of the different government railways to attend these conferences.

The Ninth Domestic Through Traffic Conference began on May 2 with an address given by Minister Yeh Kun-cho. The Conference is called to discuss matters concerning domestic through traffic business and to formulate plans for its improvement. It was held once a year before; but beginning from 1921, it will be held semiannually. The reason for this change is the through shipment of goods, which has been very recently put into operation in addition to the through shipment of passengers.

The convening of the Third General Traffic Conference, which is held once a year, will follow the Through Traffic Conference. The object of this Conference is to discuss the question of freight rates of the different railways with the view to encouraging industrial and commercial development in the country.

The Second Track Conference of the Standing Committee of Railway Technics is to begin on May 10. The standardisation of railway signals and other matters in connection with the safety of the working of railways will be discussed. In future all the government railways will work under one unified set of rules and regulations.

"It gives me much pleasure" said Minister Yeh in his opening address, "to address the members of the Ninth Domestic Through Traffic Conference who represent various lines. In 1915, there were 144,837 passengers bringing in a revenue of $1,085,000; in 1920, there were 194,759 through passengers with an earning of $2,364,000. Thus there was an increase of fifty thousand passengers and one million two hundred and seventy thousand dollars in revenue in five years' time. If the revenue for through goods for a period of six months and the interchange of rolling stock be taken into consideration, the through traffic arrangements in 1920 were responsible for the handling of a total sum of $4,847,000 from these sources, an increase of four and half times the sum received in 1915. The increase in the volume of business handled would be much more rapid had the different lines been less subject to constant interruptions of traffic.

$9,000, In Checks, Stolen From Ricsha

American Express Company and A. B. A. travellers checks and letters of credit totalling nearly $9,000, part of which was destined for famine relief, were stolen from Dr. R. G. Boville yesterday when the latter left his bag in a ricsha at the corner of Foochow and Honan Roads and stepped to a shop window to look in. Three minutes later when he turned to step into the ricsha, the coolie had disappeared.

The documents are valueless without Dr. Boville's signature. They were in a leather case which was inside of a brown leather travelling bag. In addition to the checks and letters of credit, Dr. Boville also lost his passport and private papers. The police were notified.

Dr. Boville is residing at 38 Quinsan Road and planned to leave for Canton Saturday. He is in China representing the International Association of Vacation Schools in America and recently came from Peking.

Health Dept. Plans War Upon Mosquitos

Dr. C. Noel Davis, acting health officer of the Municipal Health department has declared a war on the Shanghai mosquito in an article in the new issue of the Municipal Gazette.

Every possible breeding place for the long-billed pests that infest the Whangpoo lowlands is brought to the attention of the public with the idea of eliminating or reducing the members of mosquitos by scientific treatment.

Stagnant water, old tins, bottles, broken crockery, and every other receptacle of rain water; tubs, water plants, flower pot saucers, wells and water barrels are mentioned. Drains from kennels, chicken coops, marshes, and slushy places, and even ornamental ponds, all are pointed out as breeding places for the posts.

The cure for the pest, the notice advises is a regular and plentiful sprinkling of kerosene on all wet surfaces; a strict cleanliness to be maintained where debris might accumulate and a weekly inspection of house and surroundings for overlooked pools or pots of water.

The Waring Company

Mr. H. B. Waring's production of "Romeo and Juliet" last night was remarkable for two outstanding features—the Juliet of Miss Jeannette Sherwin and the death scene of Mercutio as played by Mr. Charles Quartermaine.

The actor in those last few moments after his encounter with Tybalt reached the heighth of tragedy and one felt the terror of the unknown that was unfolding itself to the eyes of the dying man. He had paid too great a price for the unworthy feuds of the Montagues and the Capulets.

The "Juliet" of Miss Sherwin is a thing of beauty and of pathos unutterable. One notes the sudden change from girlhood to womanhood at the kiss of Romeo, and the swift development of her being under the hammer blows of grim and hateful circumstance.

Jeannette Sherwin's art is wonderfully true. She has not only the instinct of truth but the ability to reproduce it in the different perspectives of the stage.

The rules which Taine applies to Art in general, and to plastic art in particular, apply in especial degree to an artist of the Stage.

That which he calls "selective" power, a natural force, is ever a ruling factor in the creation of character.

The finer and more evanescent evidences of individuality must to a large extent be momentary.

No true artist ever plays the same part alike on different repetitions.

The occasion; the variation of temperament, even of temperature; the emotional characteristic of the audience; each and all of these insensibly, if not consciously, can regulate the pressure in the temperamental barometer. There are always many ways of doing the same thing. One, of course, must be best; though others may come very close to it in merit.

Jeannette Sherwin's Juliet has, to my mind, the faculty of reaching the best.

It would seem in fact, as if her own nature

"Is subdued
To what it works in, like the dyer's hand."

Her intuition, which in a woman is quicker than a man's reason, not only avoids error but brings her unerringly by the quickest road to the best end.

The story of "Juliet and her Romeo," perhaps the greatest and most romantic love-story that ever was written, is one which not only lends itself to, but demands, picturesque setting.

For its tragic basis the audience must understand the power and antiquity of the surroundings of each of these unhappy lovers.

Under conditions of humbler life the tragedy would not have been possible; in still loftier station, though there might have been tragedy, it would have been wrought by armed force on one of the rival Houses or the other.

It is necessary to give something of the luxury, the hereditary feud of two dominant factions represented by their chiefs, of the ingrained bloodthirstiness of the age of the Italian petty States.

The Capulets and the Montagues must be made not only living forces, but typal.

The hour is too late to notice adequately either the Romeo of Mr. Waring, or the other members of the cast, and one would wish to dwell upon the splendour of the scene "A Hall in Capulet's House" and the beauty of the Potion scene in Juliet's Chamber.

In this the young lovers made a poignant appeal to the heartstrings of their audience and this Romeo was worthy of his Juliet.

Perhaps tomorrow I may fill in the necessary blanks which Time places upon this notice.

Tonight the Sherlock Holme's drama. "The Speckled Band" is to be played and I understand there is an eeriness about it even greater than the written story itself had, and that was very great.

W. Bruce Lockhart.

ALUMINUM WARE NEW FEATURE AT LEADING HOTELS

Astor House And Palace Instal Complete New Equipment Of Kitchen Utensils

In line with the policy of progress of the Shanghai Hotel Company an innovation that is being carried into effect this week is a complete change in the kitchenware in use in the big kitchens of the Astor House and the Palace Hotel where hereafter only aluminum utensils are to be employed.

An unusual display that has been put in place in the ante room of the ball room at the Astor House consists of glittering piles of the new aluminum ware. In these are shown all of the "Wear-Ever" aluminum hotel utensils that are to be used in future in the Astor House and Palace Hotel kitchens. In this display are to be found every form of cooking utensil from the smallest frying pan up to the largest stock pot with huge containers holding as much as fifty gallons for soups and small containers for the preparation of individual orders. Trays of all sizes of aluminum also are included in the display.

The change that has been made is in conformity with the most modern American hotel practice as from a sanitary viewpoint the aluminum ware, though vastly greater in first cost, has been found to be far superior to the ordinary hotel kitchen utensils. In the past a large proportion of the food prepared has been cooked in copper pots lined with tin. The wear of these has made necessary from time to time the relining of the vessels with tin, a process of some difficulty as the lining must completely exclude food from contact with the outer copper shell.

Through the use of aluminum utensils greater cleanliness is achieved and all necessity for relining of vessels is eliminated as the new utensils are of the same composition throughout.

Japanese Prince Feted In England

(Reuter's Service)

London, May 10.—Crown Prince Hirohito of Japan during his visit to Windsor today received an address of welcome from the Mayor. He returned to London in the evening and dined at Earl Curzon's house. He afterwards attended a performance at the Coliseum Theater.

London, May 11.—The Crown Prince of Japan was given an enthusiastic reception in the City today when he received an address of welcome from the Corporation at the Guildhall and lunched with the Lord Mayor at the Mansion House.

Prince Hirohito, accompanied by the Prince of Wales and Prince Kanin, rode in procession from Buckingham Palace at noon in bright sunshine, through streets decorated with flags and lined with cheering crowds, to the Guildhall, where they were received by the Lord Mayor and Sherriffs and a distinguished company, which included the Duke of York, the Duke of Connaught, the Home Secretary, Mr. Shortt, Prince Hirohito's suite, Japanese peers and members of the Japanese Embassy, the officers of the Japanese squadron and a number of prominent Japanese business men.

Replying to a very cordial speech of welcome from the Lord Mayor, the Crown Prince emphasised the tremendous responsibility which fell upon all survivors of the war to redeem the blood shed by millions of their fellow-men, by establishing forever a reign of peace and justice. He also paid a tribute to Great Britain, Japan's faithful ally, whose friendship the Japanese had never found wanting in the great task of consolidating peace in the Orient.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, May 11.—Everywhere the sincerest appreciation and satisfaction are felt at the magnificence of the reception accorded the Crown Prince by the King and Queen of England and the British people, which deeply touches the traditional national sentiment of affection and reverence for the Imperial House and evokes a keen response in all parts of the country. It will be long remembered here as a powerful link, binding the two empires together.

Hongkong Residents Protest New Tax

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Hongkong, May 11.—A crowded meeting held in the Theater Royal this evening to protest against an increase in the house tax passed a resolution, which read as follows: "This public meeting petitions the Government that the recent resolution of the Legislative Council to increase the house rates may be rescinded."

A meeting of the Constitutional Reform Association this evening passed without amendment the resolutions prepared, favoring: (1) The election of all non-Chinese members of the Legislative Council, (2) That a larger electoral body should be adopted in the case of these members with the exception of the representative of the Chamber of Commerce, and (3) That an unofficial majority with safeguards should be provided, as in the case in Ceylon.

SILK PRICES IN AMERICA SHOW UPWARD TREND

Cotton Situation Causing Much Anxiety For National Law Makers

(Reuter's Service)

New York, March 31 (by mail).—The raw silk market is steady, and quotations continue to show a firmer tendency. Owing to the increased scarcity of many grades, and reflecting the stronger tone of the primary markets, prices are steadily advancing along the line. Spot silk is in urgent demand. Importers' stocks are, however, limited, and they are experiencing much difficulty in filling orders, although buyers are willing to pay premiums.

Leading importers express much satisfaction at the passage by the Japanese Diet of the bill authorising the loan to the Silk Syndicate, as the delay in approving the measure was said to be responsible in no small degree for the uncertainty as to the price situation which has existed in the United States for a considerable time. The consensus of opinion here is that if the Japanese Government had failed to back the Syndicate the market would have been demoralised.

Developments in Washington seem to indicate that the present Administration will take some action, perhaps immediately, to aid the Southern cotton farmer. Southern planters, bankers and business men are to gather in a conference to discuss ways and means for exporting cotton to Europe with the aid of the War Finance Corporation. This leads a well-known New York trade paper to ask how the exports are to be stimulated, pointing out that foreign mills have no use for American cotton so long as they cannot sell finished goods, and adding that "it is doubtful if there is a good deal that we can do immediately to stimulate further demand for our cotton surplus."

PRESIDENT ALARMED

It is reported that the President views with some anxiety the proposed deep cut in cotton acreage this season, on the ground that such action would be likely to cause widespread disturbance should an active demand develop later in the season.

That the farmer is up in arms over the situation, not only in cotton but in grain and other commodities, is not to be denied, and by reason of his power in politics he is receiving a great deal of attention from the authorities, although the economic problem involved is giving the latter no end of trouble.

The business man claims that the farmer is no worse off than any other interest which has suffered from the post-war decline in prices, and should take his medicine with the rest, but the farmer is not content with this, and by organisation and propaganda is leaving no stone unturned to gain Government aid or in any other way avoid the consequences of over-inflation. One of the plans being seriously discussed is a reorganisation of marketing methods, with either the elimination of the exchanges, or greatly reducing their activities.

ACREAGE REDUCED

Meanwhile the planting season progresses and each day the claims of reduced acreage gain headway until the opinion now prevails that at present it looks like a reduction of between 25 and 33 percent.

A local spot man, enumerating reasons why cotton was a safe investment at present prices, argued that business in department stores is good and there is also an improvement in the automobile business. Mills have small stocks of raw materials, and jobbers and retailers are almost bare of goods, he claimed, adding that the large so-called carry-over surplus consists mostly of very low grades in which there is a great waste in spinning, besides linters, which are not used in spinning. He declared the greatest drawback to the market was the European situation, and in this he is supported by most of the traders here who are against the market.

Further improvement in the demand for cotton goods has been noted again this week, but it has not extended to cotton yarns, owing to the fact that large quantities of yarns unsold are being held by commission houses for the account of mills to which cash advances have been made. Local dealers in cotton goods claim there has been daily receipt of small orders from a wide territory and a constant stream of buyers to purchase in small quantities, and that all the disturbing foreign conditions do not hide the fact that there are many consumers able and ready to buy when prices are low.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

Save the Babies.

INFANT MORTALITY is something frightful. We can hardly realize that of all the children born in civilized countries, twenty-two per cent, or nearly one-quarter, die before they reach one year; thirty-seven per cent, or more than one-third, before they are five, and one-half before they are fifteen!

We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save a majority of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain more or less opium, or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity, they stupefy and retard circulation and lead to congestions, sickness, death. Castoria operates exactly the reverse. It causes the blood to circulate properly, opens the pores of the skin and allays fever.

Physicians Recommend Castoria.

"I have used your Castoria in cases of colic in children and have found it the best medicine of its kind on the market."
J. E. SIMPSON, M. D., Chicago, Ill.

"Castoria is good for children and I frequently prescribe it, and always obtain the desired result."
F. GERALD BLATTNER, M. D., Buffalo, N. Y.

"A medicine so valuable and beneficial for children as your Castoria is deserves the highest praise. I find it in use everywhere."
J. S. ALEXANDER, M. D., Omaha, Neb.

"I have prescribed Castoria to families for several years. It is all right. Mothers like it, for children will take it without any trouble."
C. A. WILSON, M. D., St. Louis, Mo.

"Have used your Castoria on various occasions in suitable cases and have found it a palatable and efficient laxative, especially in the various diseases of childhood."
CHAS. EDWARD GARDINER, M. D., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Your Castoria is a splendid remedy for children, knows the world over. I use it in my practice and have no hesitancy in recommending it for the complaints of infants and children."

Terrible Wound from Abdomen to Hip

Our portrait is of Mrs. M. MACE, of 97, Brettell Lane, Stourbridge England, who writes:

"For 8 years I suffered with a terrible wound stretching from the abdomen to the right hip; during that time I tried doctors' and patent medicines innumerable, but without success. At length I was persuaded to try 'Clarke's Blood Mixture,' and after taking the first bottle began to see an improvement, which has continued, with the result that my wound is healed, and I now have no pain." In a further recent letter Mrs. Mace writes: "I am happy to say that there has been no recurrence of my complaint and consider my case a very satisfactory cure."

Yeh Floats Huge Mitsui Loan

Yeh Kung-cho, the Minister of Communications, has secured a loan from Mitsui for $30,000,000. Security for the loan is the receipts of the Peking-Suiyuan Railway.

The loan was made under the pretext that the railroad needs more locomotives and cars. But it is an open secret that the Militarists have been pressing for funds and have threatened Yeh with dismissal unless he secured a large loan.

It is understood that Yeh is also negotiating a loan with some Americans, offering the long distance telephone system of the ministry as security. The figure sought is $3,000,000. A handsome commission goes to Yeh in the Mitsui deal, according to the Chinese Press.

Obata's Return To Japan Is Connected With Shanghai Issue

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, May 8.—Decision of Mr. Y. Obata, Japanese minister to China, to return to Tokio for a visit is believed in Peking official circles to be directly related to the Shantung question and to the Japanese loans now due. Mr. Wellington Koo minister to Great Britain recently asked that the Shantung question be taken up at the conference of the League of Nations and it is expected that Japan will again ask China to enter direct negotiations, thus forestalling Mr. Koo's plans. The inability of China to meet the loan obligations is also considered a matter that requires Mr. Obata's presence in Tokio.

Ungern And Buddha To Fight Together

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, May 7.—Baron Ungern has at last brought the Living Buddha to terms and the combined Russian-Mongol forces are to force the fighting into Chinese territory at once, according to the latest reports from secret operatives in the Urga district. It is said that the Living Buddha is now fully in accord with the plan to take Outer Mongolia, add it to the "Great Mongolian Empire" and trust to Ungern for a fair division of power and spoils.

Poppy Crowds Out Other Yunnan Crops

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, May 6.—The poppy covers most of the fields of southwestern and northwestern Yunnan, according to advices from a foreign correspondent in that province. In many districts as much as half of the acreage is devoted to the cultivation of the poppy, and two crops a year are the usual thing. The cultivation of other agricultural products suffers accordingly, and in many parts of the province food prices are high because so little land is used for the growing of foodstuffs. While the population suffers and smokes opium the officials wink at the existing state of affairs as long as their pockets are filled with revenue from the illicit cultivation of the poppy.

Opium is at present selling in Yunnan for from 30 to 60 coppers an ounce and is thus within the reach of even the poorest people. The result is that practically every one, even including children, uses the opium pipe in southwestern and northwestern Yunnan.

TRAMS IN PEKING

The Peking Government has secured a loan of $2,000,000 from the French Bank for the construction of a tramway system in the capital, according to the Chinese Press. Another $2,000,000 will be raised among the Chinese merchants so that the new company may be capitalised at $4,000,000.

Mixed Court Jottings

A charge of stealing electricity from the Municipality was made against a Chinese fitter who appeared in the Mixed Court yesterday. It is alleged that the accused, by means of wires connected to the Municipal mains, had been securing current free at 4 Chekiang Road since early in January. The case was remanded until Friday.

For keeping opium for sale at 1062 East Hanbury Road a Chinese was ordered to pay a fine of $50 or go to jail for a month. Another Chinese found in possession of a quantity of opium ash and smoking paraphernalia was fined $20.

Four coolies were charged yesterday with the highway robbery of two Japanese sailors who were set upon in an alleyway off Yalu Road early in the morning. A purse containing $12 and a dagger were taken. A ricsha coolie was later found in possession of the stolen property and implicated the others. The case was remanded one week.

A hawker was sentenced to a year's imprisonment and a coolie to three months on the charge of robbing three Chinese sailors of a bag containing $700 on Dalny Road on May 5. There was intimation, however, that the loot might have been opium. The police first arrested the coolie, on information received, and he admitted having seen the robbery and give the names of three men engaged in it. He had been given $10 of the proceeds. The hawker arrested following the coolie's admission denied all knowledge of the affair.

The Mensheviks are the only members of the Opposition who have entered M. Nikiforov's new Cabinet.

Habarovsk, May 10.—There is a strong anti-Bolshevik feeling among the local troops, which is attributed by the Communists to reactionary propaganda. Desertion from their ranks is on the increase.

Tokio Sect Faces Lese Majeste Charge

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, May 10.—The raid on the headquarters of the so-called religious sect of the Omotokyo, mentioned in an earlier message, resulted in charges of lese majesté being brought against the leaders, who were arrested. Papers, scriptures, images and altar fittings were seized and confiscated.

Secret rooms and passage were discovered in which was a box containing two million yen in gold, and diamonds, together with valuable swords and other weapons.

Other discoveries that resulted suggest the existence of a colossal scheme, alleged to be of a dynastic nature. The length of time that has elapsed between the discovery and the publication of the facts indicates that the movement has been squashed.

KINGMAN & BROS.

How to Preserve the Teeth

In order to keep the teeth in a good condition scientific precaution must be taken. Through negligence, decay and numerous other affections such as tooth-ache, dental periostitis esteo-periostitis, necrosis of the jaw, etc., may arise. During the process of ingestion there are settled on the teeth, some deposits of mineral and organic matters, called tartar, which possesses a morbid power of pressing the gum. As an inevitable result of the presence of this tartar, the teeth will become elongated and movable and will, by degrees, absorb away the enamel, leading ultimately to the decay and degeneration of the teeth. The tartar is so hard and resistant to the process of brushing that it cannot be scraped off except with dental instruments specially devised for that purpose.

Dr. KINGMAN offers to the public his service for preserving their teeth at an annual subscription Fee of $10.00 per head to be paid in advance.

The work to be done by Dr. KINGMAN to the subscribers consists in:—

(1) Cleaning of the teeth quarterly
(2) Filling with gold platinum alloy only, when the teeth present holes.
(3) Inspecting the teeth at any time at the desire of the subscribers.

Shanghai Malay Rubber Estates, Ltd.

Mr. R. N. Truman presided at the annual meeting of the Shanghai Malay Rubber Estates, Ltd., held yesterday at the office of the secretary, Mr. M. G. Beck, 3G, Peking Road. Directors A. J. Welch and L. E. Canning and Mr. Beck supported the chairman.

In his speech Mr. Truman said: "Gentlemen, The planted area of the estates was increased during the year by 57 acres and we now have 1,323 acres planted, of which 998 acres are producing. It is not proposed for the present to plant up the 43 acres already felled on the Chenghai division. I visited both the estates during the early part of this year, and am pleased to state that the gardens were in a satisfactory condition. There is still a good deal of timber to be removed on Chenghai, and on both estates further thinning out is necessary. Health dur'ng the year was satisfactory and disease and pests have given no cause for anxiety.

During the present depression expenditure has been reduced to a minimum and only the most essential work for the well being of the estate has been sanctioned. The managers are both alive to the critical position and from the recent costs received are working well within their estimates. Weeding costs on Chenghai were slightly higher than for the previous year; it is intended this year to take out of the weeding round some low-lying areas which are very costly to weed and which will not produce first class rubber trees. Labor was scarce during the early part of the year which necessitated an advance in the rates of pay; wages have since been reduced and labor is at present sufficient. The cost of production was slightly higher on both estates due chiefly to increased wages, loss on rice and the enhanced cost of all estate supplies.

"The output for the year was 376,516 lbs. and the estimate for this year is 390,000 lbs. This estimate, however, may be revised, as it is quite possible we shall be asked to agree to a 33 1/3 percent voluntary restriction. The proposed legal restriction you will have seen from the daily papers has been approved of by the home government so that it is now a case of the survival of the fittest. The sale of 328,757 lbs. realised the average net price of 1s. 6.03d.

"Referring to the accounts.

	Tls.
The net profit for the year amounts to	14,586.48
To which must be added the balance brought forward from 1919..	1,921.76
	Tls. 16,508.24
Less interim dividend of 8 percent on cumulative and participating preference issue for the half year ended 30/6/1920	8,000.00
	Tls. 8,508.24

"The directors recommend that this sum be carried forward subject to allowances for estate managers' commissions.

"You will see from the balance sheet that the overdraft with our bankers is Tls. 32,532.76 and that the sundry debtors together with stock of rubber more than cover our liability under sundry creditors. We still have 10,000 8 percent Preference shares unissued. The present depression in the industry is a great anxiety to all concerned, but it is hoped that shareholders will give the necessary financial assistance when required and thus protect their own interests. Gentlemen, if there are any questions, I will be pleased to reply to same to the best of my ability."

The report and accounts were adopted; the appointment of Mr Welch as director confirmed, and Messrs. Lowe, Bingham and Matthews re-elected auditors.

Baden-Powell Scouts

Orders for week ending May 14, 1921.

SCOUT NOTES

Owing to the inclemency of the weather during the past week indoor work has been the order of the day for all Troops. Work for the Jamboree proceeds apace and with the evident keenness of the scouts a thrilling afternoon's show will be assured.

With Scoutmaster Toone's return the Cathedral Troop has come to life again after a rather slack month, and they will be busy during the days intervening between now and the Jamboree.

The French School Troop mean to have a shot at the Shield, though they are the youngest troop, and they are putting in some very useful work. They are fortunate in having two of the keenest officers in the Association to lead them and their combined efforts will give the judges something to think about when the day comes.

The Thomas Hanbury Troop's reorganisation has now been completed by Scoutmaster Jacobs and with the big fellows under his command he has a decided advantage over the other B. P. Troops with the possible exception of the Public School Troop, which evidently means to give him a run for his money, though they are keeping their efforts somewhat secret.

The B. P. Bugle Band has now been formed and hopes to turn out on parade on Empire Day for the first combined march. The band needs a trained drummer to act as instructor and any offers in this direction will be welcomed by the D.S.M. The band meets in the Gun Shed in the Town Hall on Tuesday at 5:15 p.m., for one hour. Representatives from the Hanbury, French, and American Troops are needed for the band. Regulation army pattern bugles are used.

Tickets for the Jamboree are now ready and will be issued this week.

There will be an officers' meeting on Friday, the 13th inst., this week at the Church House at 5:15 p.m. to discuss the events of the Jamboree.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

CHINESE ADVISORS TO THE COUNCIL ARE INSTALLED

tions in the Municipal Administration."

RECEPTION IS HELD

The pathetic indifference and ignorance on the part of the Chinese in the civic affairs of Shanghai in its early days was graphically and humorously pictured by Mr. Ma Hsiang-peh, noted Catholic leader, yesterday at the reception given by 60-odd local Chinese organisations in honor of the new advisory body earlier in the day. The meeting was held at the Chinese Chamber of Commerce, and was attended by some 200 representatives of various bodies.

Mr. Chen Tse-ming, vice-chairman of the Shanghai Chinese Ratepayers' Association, presided, in the absence of the chairman, Dr. C. T. Wang, who is now in Peking in reponse to a call of the government. Mr. Sun Hanchang responded on behalf of the advisors. Mr. Huang Shao-yen, representing the Union of Labor and Commerce, was the other speaker. Tea and refreshments were served after the program and the advisors were then motored away to the Municipal offices in specially decorated cars.

Mr. Chen pointed out that it was not an occasion to rejoice although the Chinese community was confident that it had selected a well-balanced combination for the new board. Much would depend on the constituents who had elected these advisors in the successful outcome of the work of the board.

TELLS OF EARLY DAYS

Mr. Ma, who is one of the best respected old residents of Shanghai, both as an educationalist and a religious worker, spoke at great length of the early days of the Settlement. According to Mr. Ma, the foreign powers, after the Taiping Rebellion merely asked for a secluded area in this port, similar to the "Manchu Camp" in the Tsing Dynasty. The municipal affairs were intended to be left in the hands of the Chinese authorities.

On the other hand, the Chinese thought the power meant the acquisition of genuine territorial rights and left the question of administration to the foreign residents. When Mr. Ma arrived here just after the rebellion, he said, there were but 24 foreign establishments in the Yangkingpang District. When they realised that they had no protection from the Chinese, the foreign residents asked for a police system to be introduced. The Government instead, said Mr. Ma, gave the spokesman of the residents $150,000 and asked him to buy a police system.

This and many other instances were cited by Mr. Ma to depict the Chinese indifference in civic affairs and the ultimate administrative activities of the foreigner, whom Mr. Ma considered only right because he wanted to introduce all that was good for his own country into China.

HAS GREAT HOPES

While Mr. Ma expressed great hopes in the new board of advisors elected by the local organisations, he advocated the building of a commercial port entirely by Chinese labor and capital. He quoted the service of the Chinese laborers in railway construction in the United States and in engineering work in France. Proper leadership such as that possessed by the new board, he said, would enable the laborers to build a city equal in magnificence to the Settlements of Shanghai.

Mr. Sun expressed the gratitude of the advisors to the organisations which had prepared this reception and assured his audience that they would endeavor their best to fulfil their duties assigned to them. They would need the advice and assistance of the organisations from time to time.

Mr. Huang urged a close co-operation between the advisors and the organisations and said that concerted action between the electors and the elected was necessary in order to insure the success of the advisory board.

All of the advisors attended the reception: Mr. H. Y. Moh, Mr. S. K. Chen, Mr. Y. S. Ziar and Mr. David Z. T. Yui.

Meteor Showers Hot Metal Over Georgia

Macon, Ga., April 21.—(By mail).—A meteor passed over middle and southern Georgia tonight, exploding and showering hot metal and heavy iron in its path. More than a dozen explosions were heard following a sharp crackling noise.

Pieces of metal, some weighing as much as one pound fell in the trail of the meteor, and a black smoke filled the sky after the explosions. Most of the pieces fell in open fields.

Mr. Asano is planning to give a dinner for 200 Shanghai friends on board the new liner, which was formerly the Cap Finisterre.

AN UNRESTRICTED DIET

The Ambition Of The Dyspeptic

Not to be limited in one's diet but to eat whatever one pleases without discomfort is the dream of every dyspeptic.

Nobody can honestly promise to restore any stomach to this happy condition, because all people cannot eat the same kind of food with equally satisfactory results. It is literally true that "what is one man's food is another man's poison;" but it is possible to select a pleasing diet from articles of food that cause no discomfort and it is possible to tone up the digestive organs.

When the stomach lacks tone there is no quicker way to restore it than to build up the blood. Good digestion without rich red blood is impossible, and Dr. Williams' pink pills offer the best way to build up the blood. They also have a direct action on the nerves, and as the nerves control the processes of digestion these pills are especially good in stomach trouble attended with thin blood, and in nervous dyspepsia.

Let us instance the experience of one chronic indigestion sufferer, Mr. S. W. Dry, of 127, Mallinson Road, Clapham Junction, London, S. W. This gentleman recently stated:

"For sixteen years I suffered terribly from chronic indigestion. The miseries I endured during all those years are beyond belief. I could not eat anything without suffering acute pain. At times it was simply agonising. Every night I would lie awake until the early hour of the morning suffering intense pains.

"In my endeavours to get relief I tried pretty well every known remedy for indigestion without avail. I consulted doctors and attended hospitals, but they could only ease me for a time, and said my case was hopeless.

"I tried dieting myself, but still obtained no relief. Food became absolutely abhorrent to me. I lost all interest in life. Then one day I read of a case similar to my own having been cured by Dr. Williams' pink pills, so I thought I would give them a trial.

"I had not been taking the pills long before there was an improvement in my appetite. And, what was more, I could take food without suffering pain after, which was something of a change for me, who had hardly known such a thing for sixteen years.

"I continued with Dr. Williams' pink pills, and eventually all traces of indigestion disappeared. I am a different man today: I can eat any thing and feel as well as ever I did in my life."

You can begin at once this treatment with Dr. Williams' pink pills for pale people, for your own dealer sells them, and they are also obtainable at $1.50 the bottle, or $8 for 6 bottles, post free from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 96 Szechuen Road, Shanghai.

FREE:—Write today for the useful diet book, "What To Eat", directing your postcard to the above address. Perhaps you are not eating the right foods, for sometimes the very things that people eat "for their health" are just the things that cause the mischief.

Exchange Fluctuations

Asia Banking Corporation

May 10, 1921.

Spot bar silver was down 3-6d and forward 1-4d in London yesterday.

The New York price declined to 61⅝ cents and the London-New York cross rate is unchanged at 398½. The official rates here today were the same as yesterday with the exception of the Franc rate which was dropped to 780 and the Yen rate to 74¼. The market throughout the day was on the easy side, speculators being inclined to buy. While at the opening business in Sterling was done at 3-4½ and in Gold Dollars at 67¾, at the close there were no sellers of Sterling at better than 3-4⅝ and of Gold Dollars at 67½. The drop in silver in London yesterday was caused by India selling. It is hardly likely that India will continue selling at this level. If she does not come in as a buyer of silver the general market is likely to turn easy as at present India seems to be the only possible buyer of silver. Taking a general view of the situation there seems to be little hope for higher rates as yet.

May 11, 1921.

Spot bar silver was down 1-8d and forward 1-2d in London yesterday.

The New York price declined to 61⅜ cents and the London-New York cross rate improved to 399. The official rates here today were unchanged from yesterday with the exception of the Franc rate which was raised to 800 and the Gold Dollar rate to 65.

The market was weak throughout the day, there being buyers of Sterling througout the morning at 3-4⅛ and of Gold Dollars at 67 and no sellers better than 3-4 for Sterling and 66¾ for Gold Dollars.

The only advice received from London at this writing is to the effect that the drop in silver there yesterday is due to the absence of demand particularly for forward delivery. The latest cable received from New York is that of May 9 at which time the market was reported as weak. The general position still remains as outlined in our circular yesterday.

Hankow Market

The British Chamber of Commerce of Hankow write as follows in their weekly circular dated Hankow, May 4.

FINANCE & MONEY MARKET

Business remains very dull. Bills are scarce and there is no demand for remittance. Taels T. T. on Shanghai, Chinese market 97.575. Foreign Banks quote 97⅞. Dollars, are cheaper @ 70.3 and 70.6 buyers and sellers respectively. Native Interest: 5 percent.

EXPORTS

Shensi Cotton has advanced Tls. 3. owing to strong demand from Shanghai. Wood Oil is also firmer by Tls. 1.60 and Cow Hides and Sesumum Seed are steady to firm. Some small Purchases of usual shape Gall Nuts have firmed up local prices for this commodity.

IMPORTS

Piece Goods: There is a slight improvement and although the market still remains on the quiet side, the under tone is firm.

Yarn: Prices were very firm with an upward tendency. Strong demand for stocks.

Voliva-Zion Army To Invade New York

Overseer Will Lead 400 Followers—Bets $1,000 Earth Is Flat

Chicago, March 23.—Wilbur Glenn Voliva and a white-robed army of his Zion City followers are planning an invasion of "wicked New York," similar to that undertaken eighteen years ago by John Alexander Dowie, when he led 3,000 of his followers against the bright lights of Broadway. The prospect of this second punitive expedition against Manhattan came today after Helen Buhmann and Belle Schelhorn, who went to New York on a reconnoitering expedition two weeks ago, returned and reported to Voliva that the time was now ripe. New Yorkers, they say, are getting worse and worse.

It is understood that Voliva will lead 400 of his picked followers to New York, organise with the 1,000 sympathizers of the cause there and clean Broadway from the Battery to Harlem.

"This is the psychological time to bring the blue laws issue to a head," said Theodore Forby, private counsel for Voliva. "Many of the things Zion advocated have come to pass. Our war on the movies has spread to twenty-five States, and the word 'liquor' is a historical phrase."

"And it is not only the wicked ones against whom Voliva is going to fight but the scientists and astronomers and college professors.

"I will give $1,000 to the first college professor, scientist or astronomer who can prove to me that the globe is round," said Voliva today. "And I don't want them to come back with the old stall that a ship disappears at sea, or that you can sail around the earth. A ship doesn't disappear at sea, and you don't sail around the earth; you circle its flat surface.

"The earth is like a pie pan, with the north pole in the center. Why, if the earth were round the Australians, who are beneath us, according to all astronomers would have to have hooks on their feet to keep from falling off. There is no such thing as gravity. Why does a balloon go up and a brick come down? The only gravity I know of is when two sweethearts are on different ends of a bench."

The Germans Yield

NEWS that Germany has decided to yield to the Allied ultimatum and to make a determined effort to pay her debt as fixed by the Reparations Commission, will be received by the world with approval and jubilation. It is the one bright ray in a month of gloom-compelling news.

It was a difficult decision for the Germans to make. In the process the Berlin cabinet went by the board and a new organ of government had to be set up. And the vote in the Reichstag—221 to 175—reveals a badly split country. It is to be hoped that the Communists and other factions which represented the minority vote, will, now that they have been defeated, accept defeat and put their shoulders to the wheel along with the rest of their countrymen, in a determined effort to make good, insofar as is possible to them, the losses their late rulers inflicted upon the rest of the world.

As a matter of fact, after having appealed to America for a decision of the Reparations issue, and having received indirect intimation that the American Government desired them to accept the Allied terms, there was left to the Germans no honorable alternative.

The hope is now raised that there is a possibility of straightening out the European tangle of politics, race hatreds, trade and finance. While the United States remains ut of the League of Nations, it has consented to permit its representatives to take part in the deliberations of that body and the probability is that this will eventually lead to its joining the league with certain reservations.

It now remains for the Allies to see that their decision with regard to Upper Silesia, based upon the plebiscite recently conducted in that rich industrial district, is carried out. This should not prove difficult providing the matter is taken in hand with firmness and determination. The Allies owe something to Germany in this respect.

And with Britain, Germany and other nations concluding trade agreements with Soviet Russia the whole European situation begins to assume a more hopeful aspect.

The Plague Of Scandal In Japan

Is Universal Suffrage The Cure For Political Corruption?

(This article is translated from the current issue of the Kokumoto, a magazine devoted to "strengthening the national conscience of Japan.")

What has come over the Japanese public men of the day? Are they hopelessly depraved, men of no public consciousness, no national pride, no social morality? These questions pound at the doors of an awakening national conscience, and demand careful consideration. Are our public servants utterly corrupt? such is luckily not the case. The scandals of the day reveal no degeneration of personalities, but they trumpet abroad so that all the world may hear the sorry state of National Government in Japan brought about by the self-seeking of political party organisations.

Not only are our national politics hopelessly corrupt, but the Tokio Municipality is also tarred with the same brush. There is hopefully a change coming in municipal politics, but so far little hope of a change in national conditions is foreshadowed by the actions now being taken on the scandals recently revealed. The South Manchurian Railway stands forth today indecent in the limelight of public exposure. The opium scandal clamors for correction. Everywhere scandals of misused public trusts are being brought to light and ruthlessly exposed to a bewildered public. But after all is there any sincerity in these exposures? They are only a part of the game of party politics. The party out of power knows the cause of all these scandals but is no more able to correct it than the party in power cares to correct it. The organisation of political parties today is such that these scandals are inseparable from their self-interested conduct of the nation's business.

PARTY GOVERNMENT

The public has been led to believe that party government means constitutional government. But political party governments and constitutional government are very different things. Constitutional government is an ideal, and party government represents the existing compromises between the ideal and the expedient. It is indeed to be doubted if there is any good that can be found in government by political parties.

Constitutional government presents an equal balance of the three great functions of government, the legislative, the executive, and the judicial. But party government is a perversion of constitutional government, because while it holds itself up as the ideal, it is only the expedient which for selfish motives seeks to retain in its own organisations the legislative and executive functions of government. It is in the usurpation of these two functions of constitutional government that the fatal defect of party government lies. From the selfishness which dictates this usurpation these abuses of public trust rise, and it is because of this that the evils of party government are so glaring, and party government itself is so contemptuous of popular opinion.

PEOPLE NOT REPRESENTED

Constitutional government vests the legislative function in the people. But the fact is that this right is vested in the representatives of the people. It is an ideal of constitutional government that the representatives of the people are selected by the people who will choose the most fitting and able person to represent their wishes in the councils of the nation. But just how do these representatives of the people really represent the people of Japan? They do not represent them at all, because the people actually have no voice in the actual selection of the candidates for the national assembly. Under existing conditions only men of property or men who can borrow money to defray their election expense can put themselves forward as candidates for public office. The people do not select the candidates. Instead, most of the candidates are men who are ambitious for official position and the expense of election is nothing for them to bear. In such conditions men of character, ability and personality are hopelessly handicapped in such a race. Candidates for office in Japan must be men financially able to devote much leisure to their canvass for votes; they must be able to employ many assistants; must be well able to meet many heavy expenses outside the regular type of election costs. The expense of contesting an election varies greatly, but it is invariably high. Some country district seats in the Diet will cost the contesting candidates from 20,000 to 30,000 yen, and the city district expenses frequently run over 2 or 3 hundred thousand yen. An election to the Diet is a fierce fight against competition in which the longest purse always wins. If a candidate is elected he gets some return for this expenditure; but if he is defeated he can hardly show his face in public again, and all his expenses have been wasted. And thus it has come to such a state in our political world that men without means, possessing only character and ability but who have political ambitions, are obliged to affiliate with some political party organisation by which the expenses of their election are defrayed.

MONEY MAKES PARTIES

Constituted as they are, political parties are not economic organisations producing wealth. Their funds must come from outside the organisation. And this is the reason why the great men in all political parties are the ready money-getters, those men whose influence is so great that they are able to compel contributions to the party funds. Political parties with full coffers grow great, while those with lean finances remain small and out of power. Such being the condition of party finances, it is no wonder that there is no shame in them, and question of right or public conscience naturally never enter into the expedients by which they fill their treasuries. Any means is good so long as it fills the party coffers. Political parties are nothing if not pragmatic.

Take for instance the South Manchurian Railway Scandal. Mr. Yamada was only acting in accordance with his training. And all the fiery oratory and denunciations of Mr. Nakashoji are without effect when one considers that the matters he is denouncing have been a public secret for a long time. If Mr. Nakashoji only learned of the shocking condition of affairs in the South Manchurian Railway through Mr. Yamada's confession he is a very stupid person, and goes through the world with his ears and eyes shut to what goes on about him. His sincerity must be doubted because the only interest the Kenseikai had in airing this scandal in the Diet was their hope that it might bring about the fall of the Hara Cabinet, and their own entry into power.

The Kenseikai, as well as the rest of the political world, knew and knows that the President of the Seiyukai has to have money to support his party's place in power, and everybody knows that in the present state of political party organisations in Japan these irregularities are the rule, and can not be helped.

PARTIES MUST HAVE FUNDS

It is quite natural then that the Government's business should be awarded to those who have been contributors to the Party funds. Whatever a Cabinet may profess to represent, so long as it stands by the power of a political party alone, these irregularities and these scandals will always be with us. The only difference between one political party and another is the degree of their skill in exacting contributions to the party funds, and in the way they succeed in carrying out their disgraceful betrayals of the trust reposed in them, and then hushing things up.

Here the question arises, will the extension of the suffrage bring about better conditions? It is not to be expected. It will, in the present state of political consciousness, do no good at all, rather harm. There will only result a larger number of voters, and a consequent increase of election expenses. And if election expenses are going to increase, the political parties will need more money, and if the parties need more money, what is the use of getting excited about universal suffrage, because everyone knows where they are going to get their funds. And universal suffrage will not prove a panacea for the evils we are trying to correct.

NO POLITICAL MORALITY

The political morality of the Party Cabinet is falling lower and lower all the time. No mere party Government can now hope to escape from the shackles of veniality they have all helped in the past to fasten on their party organisations. Would not a means of escape from these irregularities be found in a bureaucratic government? Experience certainly does not lead one to expect a very hopeful result from such a change. The scandals of the Yamato Cabinet are sufficient reminder that bureaucratic governments are not less inclined to irregularities and betrayal of the public trust than are party governments. Bureaucracies, too, are rotten

WHY DO MEN MARRY?

This is a question frequently asked by the young bachelor, and even more often asked by the old benedict.

But you may ask the question until your breath gives out, and whether you are single, or running in double harness, the fact remains that as soon as the opportunity arises you ignore Punch's advice of "Don't" and rashly "Do."

The following are a number of letters written to the "Yangtszepoo Herald," in which you will get some ideas of "Why Men Marry."

* * *

Dear Sir.—I married because I did not like the idea of my name—John Smith—dying out.—J. S. (Jessfield).

* * *

Dear Sir.—For years and years I had been giving Wedding presents, but no one had ever given me one and so I married—Sandy (Wayside).

* * *

Sir, I married my wife because I disliked the woman so much. When I was young she jilted me. Then the other fellows jilted her. Years after, when I was a crusty old bachelor with fixed selfish habits she was still a spinster, so I married her—a silly revenge anyway.

—D. F. (Pootung).

Sir.—I married as an example to my children.

—W. B. (Kiangwan).

Dear Sir.—Being penniless, I married because I loved her money. She married because she loved me. My love has proved to be more durable than hers, and I apologise for being compelled to send this letter to you unstamped.

—Hard Up (Rifle Range).

Sir.—I married because I loathe being sued for breach of promise.—Flirt (Bundside).

* * *

Dear Sir,
You ask me why I married,
It came about by chance,
Because too long I tarried
At an Astor House tea dance;
I'd got through all my chatter,
And then I must confess,
I lost all my grey matter—
I asked—and she said "Yes."

—Crazy (Pootoo).

* * *

Sir.—I married for peace. I am exceptionally handsome, many persons holding that I am remarkably like the late Apollo—no relation to the owner of the present Apollo. I did it hoping it would put an end to the unwelcome attentions with which I was pestered by my lady friends; unfortunately it has not done so, and I am now developing a beard.

—Percy (Maloo).

Dear Sir.—My marriage was due to a lack of frankness on my part. I got engaged to the lady at the seaside, and she did not understand that it was only for the period of the Silly Season, nor did her great hulking brute of a father.

—S. Tuck (Wei-Hai-Wei).

Sir.—In reply to your question "Why Men Marry?" let me answer on behalf of my husband whom I have forbidden to write. Men marry to get a help meet, who will lighten their labors and endue their house with pleasing conversation. But men are ungrateful after I have been talking to my husband for over an hour at a time, all he has replied is "Shurrup".—Maggie (Broadway).

* * *

Dear Sir.—Why did I marry? Frankly, you have me. I have been wondering for over thirty years, and I am dashed if I know.—Crabbed Age (Bubbling Well).

MADAME CURIE

Madame curie is leaving Paris for the United States this month.

By every test of intelligent measurement she is one of the greatest of the earth's great ones.

She sits and has sat upon no throne; she has not catered to the world's amusement nor added to its meretricious pleasures; she has not accumulated a gigantic fortune by her shrewdness; she belongs to no regal family "whose blood has crept through scoundrels since the flood," and she owes what honors she has to no jockeying of a clever press agent nor to the clever advertising of some astute manager.

All she has done is to serve mankind.

She has benefited the human race.

Her claim to greatness therefore rests upon the same basis as that of Thomas Edison, Luther Burbank, Pasteur, Koch, Lister, Columbus, Galileo, back to Plato, and on back into dim tradition to Prometheus, who stole fire from the gods and gave it to men.

She is not at all the kind of great person that the Kaiser was, or Napoleon, or Timour, or Ahasuerus, or Cleopatra, or any other wastrel or swollen egotist whose claim to distinction rests upon destruction.

The women of America are planning to give Madame Curie, when she comes here, a unique testimonial, a little bit of what is perhaps the most precious substance known.

It will be one gramme of radium. It will hardly be enough to fill a small thimble and will cost $100,000.

This is most fitting, as Madame Curie is the one who discovered radium.

The story of that discovery is more fascinating than any romance. The way she tracked down and finally captured the world's most valuable matter is as exciting as any detective story. It is, in fact, the most splendid of detective stories.

"No other woman," says Dr. Abbe, "by sheer force of energy and brain power, has pursued a trail into an unknown jungle, and brought to light such an unsuspected new factor in the world's make up, which has had such revolutionary influence in science.

"No one can say that she stumbled on this by chance. There existed, first of all, a complete education in chemistry and physics, without which the first step could not have been taken. Secondly, the energy, the dominating will, the zeal in pursuit, the indefatigable working power, the selfsacrificing bravery—the same forces which made it possible for Peary to reach the North Pole—carried this explorer into an unknown wilderness."

Her father was Professor of Physics and Chemistry in the University of Warsaw, hence her scientific taste was inbred.

For two years she studied at the University of Paris, and lived the meager life of a student in the Latin Quarter.

She became the assistant of Professor Becquerel in Physics and of Professor Curie in Chemistry. Becquerel had her assist him in his research to find out whether uranium, after exposure to sunlight, would shine in a dark room, and if it did, would that light act like the newly discovered X-ray light, which had power to pass through opaque substances.

Then follows the adventurous tale: I quote from the unpublished manuscript of Dr. Abbe's book:

"An experiment was prepared with a photographic plate enclosed in a black envelope on which a piece of uranium was laid. While waiting for a sunny day this was laid in a dark drawer. A fortnight of dull Paris days passed. It was thought wise to test the freshness of the plate by developing it. To the surprise of all, a dark spot appeared on it beneath where the mineral had rested.

"In a word some unsuspected rays had gone through the black paper. This was the startling beginning of the discovery. Becquerel rays became the new wonder. By delicate test they were proved to be electrical.

"Then began the pursuit. All joined in it. Every form of uranium in laboratories was tested.

"Mme. Curie took the next great step—the deciding step. She went to the mines near Carlsbad, where the mineral pitchblende had been mined for a century for the extraction of uranium for making Bohemian glass and beautiful dyes. She examined the refuse, of which fifty tons had accumulated in years past.

"Finally after two years, she was able by ultra-chemical resources to announce to the world (1898) the discovery of a new element—radium.

"It was her beautiful tribute to science that an impersonal name—radium—was given, because it gave out rays. Knowledge, and not fame was her pursuit.

"The credit for this discovery was settled incontestably by a commission giving Mme. Curie the Nobel Prize in 1903."

A Musical Show

If The Characters Wrote It Themselves

BY JAMES J. MONTAGUE

Opening Chorus Of Corset Models.

Say! Ain't we little beauties?
Just see our lingerie,
The prettiest bunch of cuties
In any show are we.
The struck-up prima donna
Is paid a lot more dough,
But she's got too much on, huh!
It's us that makes the show.
Looka the saps with the opera glasses
Out in the orchestra chairs;
All of them b'longs to them stock-broking classes,
That means they all have got theirs.
Think that they come here to listen to lyrics?
Never a Chinaman's chance!
That's an idea would give you hysterics.
They come here to look at us dance!

Enter Comedian—

It's the fellow that is funny who can always draw the money;
There is nothing to this music show but me.
I will make the people happy if my lines are smart and snappy,
I'm the guy that everybody pays to see.
I can always make 'em snicken with my gags about bum liquor
And the booze, that all the stews now make at home.
If the show is half way clever, I can make it run forever
With the gray stuff that is underneath my dome.

Chorus:

Him the guy that draws the money—he is just about as funny
As the lady in the show they call Salome.
It was only luck that made him, and if any one X-rayed him,
They would paste upon his egg, "Nobody home!"

Exit Chorus and Comedian.

Enter Prima Donna—

In all my winning lovelines
I stand before you here;
Your rapture you may well express
The moment I appear.
I have a voice of liquid gold
And just to show its power
I presently intend to hold
A trill for half an hour.
(Trill.)

Enter Tenor—

Tenor.

She's getting old,
She's getting fat,
She's singing off the key;
Those notes of gold
Are shrill and flat
So listen now to me.
The handsomest man in the musical game
With a voice like a silver bell,
Around the girth of the rolling earth
My phonograph records sell.
The other people upon the stage
Wholly superfluous are;
The show cannot lose as long as I choose
To sing in the role of star.

Prima Donna.

He cannot act and his voice is cracked,
But I hope that you will not go
Till convinced you are that I am the star
Of this—now—musical show.

(Exit Prima Donna and Tenor.)

Enter Chorus—

We know that you've been waiting
A long and weary time
To hear our captivating
And merry voices chime.
Them stars ain't entertaining.
They never get no claque
But you've sat uncomplaining
And now us girls is back.
So lookit us prance as we go through the paces
The dance master learned us to show to you folks;
Give US the once-over clear up to our faces,
And you'll see that the rest of the actors is jokes.
They think they're the people that bring in the dollars,
But anyway all of you audience knows,
That when we come on all the spectators hollers.
It's the chorus that cops in a musical show.

Some Bits From Sir Philip Gibbs

(New York World)

Sir Philip Gibbs, at a dinner just before he sailed for home, told a couple of stories. They have no particular moral, but they are apropos and get across wonderfully. His message is the need of closer affinity between English-speaking nations.

"The greatest barrier is language—or, rather, accent," he says, observant enough to know that his own accent is ineradicably remote from that of New York. "Accent and figures of speech.

"An American friend of mine arrived late at a dinner at the Hotel Savoy in London. When the waiter started to serve him he whispered:

"'Cut out the fish.'

"'Yes, sir; certainly, sir,' said the waiter, and with a stunned expression went into conference with the head waiter. That functionary called some other waiters. Then they went out to visit the chef.

"Finally my friend was served with the fish course—from which all the bones had been carefully removed.

"But even if our languages are different our standards are sound. I heard a couple of American doughboys talking in Paris. One said:

"'Been to that there Louvre?'

"'Nope, but I'm going,' was the reply.

"'Well, let me give you a tip,' said the first doughboy. 'Don't take a girl. There's a lot of rough stuff in that place.'"

He ends feelingly:

"Beauty, love and laughter—the three great gifts of life. If we can radiate those there is no need for armies or a League of Nations."

The Official Cuckoo

Wives are said to be cheaper than ever in Turkey. Just the other way here.

Now that we are sure there will be some whiskers in the cabinet all is well.

But, then, there wasn't so much to lie about in Washington's day as there is now.

There was a little girl
And she had a little curl,
Right in the middle of her forehead.
When she was good
She was very very good,
But when she was bad—
She was very interesting.

The Plague Of Scandal In Japan

with nepotism; ability and character have less opportunity to serve the public interest under their rule than they have under existing party governments. Both bureaucratic and party governments being utterly corrupt, what is there left for us to do if we are to escape from these intolerable scandals?

A third system of government which will base its power on the force of the character and efficiency of its members must grow up to take the place of existing organisations. Perhaps it will not be long before such a political organisation will come into being. What Japan longs for is a "Bushido Cabinet," for the people are heartily sick of such cabinets as they now have. Corruption sometimes reaches such a point that a reaction for righteousness and honesty sets in and this is about the point the Japanese people have now reached in their consideration of political questions.

The actual conditions of party government up to the present day are about as described. All present political organisations are worthless. Reform of conditions depends on character. Personality is a human question, so one need not despair of the future solution. Such men as we need are to be found. And it must be remembered that mankind is essentially sane, and means to obtain those things it most needs and desires.
